FORTY-THIRD YEAR. LINCOLN, NEBRASKA, THURSDAY, AUGUST 28, 1924. TWO CENTS.

WOMAN SHOT SELF

SUSPECT TRIES SUICIDE ROUTE

Mrs. Hazel Robertson, who had been detained at Auburn, Neb., for questioning concerning her knowledge of William N. Parker and his confession concerning counterfeiting, which also implicated an Omaha man who has not been caught, shot herself Thursday afternoon at Auburn.

She was at once removed from the jail to a private hospital, where it was understood she had a chance for life.

The bullet entered her body just above the heart.

Parker had said that Mrs. Robertson and Mrs. Nellie Calvert were going on the road with him and his partner, and that he and the other man planned to dispose of bogus money made in Lincoln. Details as to how Mrs. Robertson secured the gun and the shooting did not reach Lincoln. Sheriff Davis of Auburn said he thought she would live.

The jail at Auburn is not fitted to care for women and Mrs. Robertson was detained at a private home.

Mrs. Robertson was arrested at Auburn where she had gone to put on a demonstration of a sewing machine at the county fair. She had been living in Lincoln.

It was understood Mrs. Robertson had denied all knowledge of Parker's statements.

TWICE STRICKEN, CARRIES ON.

MUSKOGEE, Ok., Aug. 28.—The second great tragedy in Harry Bennett's life is settling over him like dusk at sunset. Bennett, an actor, artist and musician, is going blind.

Years ago, Bennett's voice was stricken in his appearance at the opening of the $1,000,000 Keith theater in Boston. Starting anew he centered his efforts at the piano and pipe organ and became a theater photoplayer. He has been playing in Muskogee's leading theaters for some time. Now, the beys of his instrument are becoming blurred. For him the sun is setting. But, Bennett is not giving up. His mind visions a traveling minstrel show.

Wheeler Will Campaign for LaFollette in Effort to Take Home States From President Coolidge.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—Burton K. Wheeler, as chief campaigner for the LaFollette-Wheeler independent ticket next week will open a drive solely directed against President Coolidge, in an effort to take away his home New England states.

The decision to center the independent attack around Mr. Coolidge rather than the democratic candidate, John W. Davis, was reached after a series of conferences between LaFollette and Wheeler during which independent political strategy for the early part of the presidential campaign was discussed.

"Davis' candidacy is not formidable," said Wheeler in disclosing his plans. Wheeler asserted the campaign would turn out to be a straight away fight with the republicans, with the democrats running a bad third.

Wheeler will start the fireworks Monday with a speech on Boston Commons.

PERSHING ON DEFENSE ACT

ADDRESSES HUGE CROWD AT BEATRICE COURT HOUSE.

Renews Acquaintance Begun Thirty Years Ago as Head of Nebraska University Cadet Corps.

BEATRICE, Neb., Aug. 28.—General John J. Pershing, who visited here thirty years ago at the head of the Nebraska University Cadets, returned to Beatrice today as the head of the American armies. He was greeted by veterans of the Civil, Spanish-American and world wars, together with thousands of citizens of southeastern Nebraska and northern Kansas. After reviewing Company C of the national guard and the reserve officers corps, he spoke from the court house steps, being introduced by Major J. Ed. C. Fisher, former state commander of the American Legion.

The general stressed the necessity for national defense and preparedness, stating that we should profit from the lessons of 1917, when America found itself so unprepared. These lessons, he asserted, ought to sink deeper into our minds than the lessons of any other war, owing to the loss of life. There is no flavor of the military about the national defense act. The regular army and national guard, he asserted, are all volunteers, all citizens, and theer is nothing about the system which tends to the building of a military machine.

Following the meeting on the court house lawn, General Pershing was the guest of honor at a luncheon at the Paddock hotel, which he also spoke, stressing further the points brought out in his first address, and stating further that America as one of the lessons taught from the world war, owed to the young men to have some provision or means of defense by offering the young men a chance for some sort of military training.

Bill Tilden Wins Second Round Match

WEST SIDE TENNIS CLUB, FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 28.—With all the ease and finesse of the champion that he is, William T. Tilden, the four time national title holder, opened the third day of the national tennis championships here this afternoon with a victory over Lucien Williams, Chicago, former champion of the Yale team at 6-0, 6-2 and 6-1.

Just as he did yesterday against the fine Spanish player, Manuel Alonzo, Tilden showed a gallery of 5,000 just how good he was, in the first set which he crashed thru at love. Then the tall Philadelphian pulled up and started experimenting with his vast reportoire of strokes. He gave the former Yale star an occasional placement in the second and third sets and smiled at the crowd that was sweltering under the sun in the concrete stands.

After Tilden had given his exhibition, William M. Johnston, San Francisco, America's second ranking player gave an exhibition almost as convincing in winning his match from Wray Brown, St. Louis, 6-4, 6-1 and 6-1.

Brian Norton, St. Louis, the former South African, survived the round when his fellow townsman went down. He defeated Walter Westbrook, Los Angeles, rather easily at 6-1, 6-3 and 6-3.

In the hardest fought match of the tournament, George Lott, jr., Chicage, 18-year-old junior champion, squeezed thru a victory over Arthur Chapin, jr., Springfield, Mass., the protege of Bill Tilden, at 6-4, 7-5 and 16-14.

Chapin put up a plucky game but he couldn't have gone as long as he did if Lott had not been wild and erratic, especially on his service when he mixed double faults with almost as many good shots.

SLAYERS SORRY TRIAL IS ENDED

COOK COUNTY JAIL, CHICAGO, Aug. 28—Nathan Leopold jr. and Richard Loeb are sorry their murder hearing before Chief Justice John R. Caverly is over. They dislike the prospects of dull jail routine

Leopold was asked whether he was glad the hearing was over; whether he had not been bored by the long arguments

"On the contrary," the precocious slayer of Robert Franks replied, "I am sorry that it is over. It formed a relief from this terrible jail routine. Now I've nothing to look forward to for several weeks but cell life."

Loeb expressed himself in much the same manner but was more optimistic. He chatted gaily with newspaper reporters and insisted "nothing is so important right now as my lunch."

Neither Leopold nor Loeb would comment on their opinion as to the sentence to be imposed upon them.

As court was closed, the two youths were taken back to their respective cells. They immediately changed their clothes, discarding their immaculate courtroom attire for the plain shirt and trousers which they wear in jail. Both wore their shirts open at the throat, without ties.

MANY HURT UPON SHIPS

Two Great Ocean Liners Battered by Storm.

HOURS OF TERROR AT SEA

Terrific Hurricane Strikes the Atlantic Seaboard.

Over Fifty Passengers Injured When Thrown About by Huge Waves—Smaller Vessels May Be Caught.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—Two great ocean liners, battered by giant seas in a terrific storm which raged in the Atlantic Tuesday were in port here today, while more than fifity of their passengers suffered from injuries sustained when they were thrown about by the force of great waves which all but engulfed the ships.

The Arabic of the White Star line, which radioed for ambulances to meet her at the dock, was the most severely hit. Twelve passengers were taken to hospitals at once when she docked late yesterday. Twenty-four others were treated by surgeons and taken to their homes or hotels.

The Homeric of the same line also was hard hit, and seven of her passengers were injured.

The Arabic was a veritable hospital ship as she steamed into port, more than three score of her passengers being stretched out on mattresses on deck.

Sea captains said the storm was the worst they had encountered and additional stories of the fury of the hurricane were expected as other liners limped into port during the day.

Shipping men feared that smaller vessels caught in the storm may have suffered even more severely than the big liners and awaited anxiously for news of ships in the south and central American and West Indies runs.

A new storm was reported moving northward from the West Indian hurricane zone.

The Danish steamer Nordfarren, en route from South American ports, reported that her captain had been washed from the bridge and lost.

Captain Blown from Bridge.

The captain of the Doheny tanker Cerro Ebano also was blown from his bridge but managed to cling to a lower deck rail. A member of the crew was blown overboard and lost.

Passengers of the Arabic told a thrilling story of hours of terror at sea when the storm struck the big liner. So great was the force of the wind and waves that the captain finally decided to heave to in the wind and ride out the gale.

Bulkheads were smashed, cabins flooded, sections of the ship's rail torn away and many ventilators blown loose.

Passengers, many of whom were sea sick in their berths, were hurled to the floor and some of them struck by flying furniture and timbers.

The storm came on at 3 p. m. Tuesday, a huge wave breaking over the ship and nearly engulfing her. Life boats were torn away and many windows smashed. Tons of water entered the vessel, some of the

PLEADS GUILTY TO CHARGE OF FORGERY

Charles Knight, Alleged Bad Check Artist, Is Bound Over to District Court Thursday Morning.

Charles Knight, twenty-six, alleged to have attempted to pass forged checks to numerous local business houses, pleaded guilty to a charge of forgery when arraigned in Justice Hawes' court Thursday forenoon and was bound over to district court under $500 bond. He was unable to furnish the bail and is being held at the county jail.

Knight was arrested by police Tuesday evening near Thirteenth and M streets after a spirited chase thru an alley between M and N. Officers took up the hunt when three firms called the station with the information that Knight had attempted to cash checks at their places of business.

He had on his person six checks, five for $18 50 and the other for $14 50. All were made out to G. E. Morgan and signed. E. B Smith A war veteran's petition for adjusted compensation was among his possessions and was used a s means of identification when he cahed a check he said The name on the petition was George Morgan of Omaha

A search of his effects taken from a local hotel netted three "burglar" keys and a file Forgery was but a side line to a profession of burglary. Captain Anderson thought

GET ROBBERS AND BOOTY

ORLEANS MERCHANT RECOVERS MOST OF STOLEN GOODS.

Youth Sentenced to Reformatory and Companion Will Be Tried in District Court at Alma.

Solution of the McGeachin store robbery at Orleans was contained in the confession of the younger of two men arrested Monday at Almena, Kas., and most of their booty has been recovered. The story is told by James McGeachin, senior member of the firm, in a letter to Secretary Watson of the Federation of Nebraska Retailers, which worked on the case. He writes:

"We caught the burglars Monday, who, I have reported to you, broke in the store Thursday. They were young fellows, eighteen and twenty-four years old, bums from Wisconsin and Indiana returning from Colorado.

"They attempted to get away on foot carrying two bags of merchandise, first going to Oxford, then south into Kansas and we caught them at Almena, where they attempted to sell some shirts and socks. We have recovered the entire loot with the exception of a few pairs of silk socks.

"One plead guilty and was given from one to three years in the reformatory at Lincoln. The other fellow will be tried September 9th in the district court."

The good results accomplished in this case, according to Mr. Watson, are due, in a very large measure, to the cooperation received by the merchants from P. R. Williams, sheriff of Harlan county whose search left no stone unturned in his efforts to run down any clues.

The store was entered sometime after midnight on August 22, entrance having been made thru a rear window about eight feet from the ground, making it necessary to climb down into the store over a ledge of shelving. No doors were opened and the stolen merchandise was carried out over the shelving and thru the high window.

There were stolen six men's suits, a brown traveling bag, some ties and sox, valued, in all, at about $200.

According to Secretary Watson this is the fourteenth big robbery of members of the federation since it started its burglary service to members just a year ago. All the goods have been recovered in four of these fourteen cases; and from 25 per cent to 75 per cent have been recovered in seven cases Convictions have been secured in eleven cases In all, thirty six arrests have been made and eighteen penitentiary convictions obtained.

"That the merchants of the state are fully determined to wipe out the burglary evil is indicated by the loyal support which they are giving the federation in its efforts" Mr Watson says "Since the federation started its campaign against burglaries one year ago its membership has nearlydoubled. Further evidence of the merchants' determination and appreciation is attested by the numerous letters that are being received"

Industrial whistles will respond to the whistle of the engine drawing the Dawes train into Lincoln. General Dawes, will review the entire parade from an open car parked on M street at the south side of the Lindell hotel.

By virtue of the public address system installed at the stadium, the voice of General Dawes will be amplified many times. Twelve microphones or transmitters will surround the speaker in circle form. Eighteen big projector horns are on the tower. The microphones pick up the speech and pass it to the amplifying equipment in the control room under the stadium. There are ten tons of amplifying apparatus, altho the public sees but five per cent of the whole. The program will be amplified in the control room and passed back to the projector horns. This all has nothing to do with radio transmission.

Additional microphones or transmitters pick up the program and carry it over long-distance toll lines to broadcasting stations where it will be broadcasted thruout the United States. It will be sent out from these stations.

CLAIM CREDIT FOR ARREST OF PARKER

L. M. Strong and Arthur Hauser Seek Any Reward That May Be Offered for the Apprehension.

L. M. Strong and Arthur Hauser made a claim to Lincoln authorities Thursday that they were entitled to any reward that may be offered by the federal government for the capture of W. N. Parker and Eldon Outz alleged to have passed two counterfeit dollars to one of Mr. Strong's employe's Monday night

Mr. Strong is the proprietor of a concession at Capitol Beach and discovered the counterfeit money soon after it had been passed to one of his employe's. He claims to have apprehended both Parker and Outz and took them to the beach office where they were placed under arrest for passing counterfeit money by Mr. Hauser, deputized by the county sheriff and an employe of the park. Mr. Hauser called Sheriff Hensel after the men had been apprehended and turned the prisoners over to the sheriff upon his arrival

As far as is known there is no standing reward offered by the government for the apprehension of persons passing counterfeit money Any reward that may be offered for the discovery of counterfeiting equipment probably go to deputy sheriffs who located the plant at the Parker home Federal officers give credit to the Lincoln authorities for the results obtained in the case and component all those who had a part in uncovering the plant

WRITES GERM NOTE

Roy L. Schultz wrote a letter to Joseph Uihlein, Milwaukee millionaire, in which he demanded $25,000. His threat was based upon the statement that the letter he sent to the millionaire had been immersed in disease germs, but that if the $25,000 were paid a drug would be furnished to kill the germs. Schultz was traped. The youth will be given a hearing in September.—P. & A.

HAS NO FEAR OF MILITARY

GOVERNOR SAYS ARMY OUT OF HARMONY WITH CIVIL.

Contends Army Officers Still Asking Draft Boards to Mobilize All Men of Military Age.

"Owing to the brevity and general character of the resolution," said Governor Bryan when asked for an opinion on the action of the American Legion in state convention endorsing national defense day, "I am unable to determine whether the resolution is an endorsement of President Coolidge's plan for mobilization or the war department's plan for mobilization, or the regular army officers' plan for mobilization, or whether it was an endorsement of of the proclamation by the governor of Nebraska. As the war department at Washington, speaking for the president said in a recent announcement in the press that the co-operation given by Governor Bryan of Nebraska was all they had asked for and was all they expected, I must conclude the resolution adopted at Grand Island was an endorsement of the position as explained by President Coolidge and also that embodied in a proclamation from the chief executive of Nebraska and also is a declaration against mobilization of civil forces of the state as attempted and suggested by regular army officers.

"Notwithstanding the president's declaration that there is to be no mobilization of civil forces, regular army officers have sent a letter directed to boards which were used during the world war asking them to co-operate in calling on all able bodied men from eighteen to forty-five to take part in mobilization test day, September 12."

The governor referred to a letter from Major George B. Duncan, commanding the seventh army corps, at Omaha, dated August 8, addressed "To each world war selective service commission," the subject matter being described as "Recognition of world war service and participation in national defense day."

He read from section 3 of the letter to show that it was desired to reconstruct the war time draft boards to take charge of securing in their jurisdictions volunteers of military age

"Hope is held out in this letter," said Governor Bryan, "that the war department will get congress to

HIS REGARDS TO MR. HIGH

GOVERNOR SAYS PROHIBITION LAW IS ENFORCED.

Has No Evidence Before Him Which Would Justify Him in Removing Any Sheriff or Others.

"This is the same Mr. High," said Governor Bryan, replying to criticisms made by the state superintendent of the anti-saloon league, "who two years ago suppressed a letter he had received from officers of the national anti-saloon league criticising him for opposing Senator Hitchcock and stating that Hitchcock's position was satisfactory to the ntaional organization. It appears Mr. High's office is operated by the surplus energy of the republican state committee and only functions when that committee is active in the campaign. Then he finds some excuse to oppose democratic officials. In view of corruption at Washington in the national government and the close association of cabinet officials with trafficking in whisky permits, honesty has been made the issue in this campaign and this should be practiced by those of the anti-saloon league in Nebraska."

When asked concerning Rev. F. A. High's statement charging that the governor had reduced the appropriation for prohibition enforcement, and this had reduced the law enforcement staff, that prohibition laws are not satisfactorily being enforced and the governor is not acting on complaints for removal of faithless officials Governor Bryan said:

"The trouble with the statement is there is no truth in it and no basis of fact on which he can truthfully make such a statement as was credited to him in republican newspapers. There is no shortage of funds or men in the law enforcement staff and the department has been commended for its efficiency by the W. C. T. U., ministerial associations, city and county officials and by individuals thruout the state.

"As Mr. High criticises the governor and yet commends his work thru the chief deputy law enforcing officer the political character of the criticism is apparent.

"As to criticism of non-removal of sheriffs and others, the law as passed at the governor's request accomplishes its purpose and has worked admirably. The fact that the governor has authority to remove officials who fail to enforce law adds to the governor's influence in securing the co-operation of local officers and I take this opportunity again to commend sheriffs, county attorneys and police officials for enforcing not only prohibition laws but other laws.

"At no time since the prohibition law went into effect has there been as little violation of the law as at the present time. At no time since the state went dry of its own accord has the state been as free from stills.

"State and federal officials are cooperating fully and to the satisfaction of both state and federal authorities. There is nothing before the governor nor has there been that would justify the removal of a sheriff for failure to enforce the prohibition law. Complaints are turned over by the governor to Chief Deputy Tom Carroll for investigation and he reported today that he had no evidence justifying the governor in the removal of any sheriff."

MAKE HUNT TO FIND LOOT

NO MONEY FOUND IN FAHY'S DEPOSIT BOX.

Women in Case to Be Sought by Operatives—Underworld Character Is Also Under Arrest.

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—While William F. Fahy, expert sleuth of the postoffice department, arrested in the Kane county jail on charges of being the head of the gang which carried out the $2,000,000 mail robbery at Rondout, Ill., last June, apparently making no effort to obtain bail, operatives today renewed their efforts to discover the whereabouts of the loot.

Fahy and James Murray, Chicago under-world character, also under arrest, are believed to have taken most of the money in the excitement that followed accidental shooting of one member of the gang by another.

A search for safe deposit boxes in Fahy's name proved futule yesterday, the only box found containing nothing more than insurance policies and a few personal documents.

Operatives today planned to search further for women in the case. Mrs. Fahy, wife of the detective, slipped into her home under the very eyes of detectives and then left, taking with her a sheaf of documents. She has not been found since.

Mrs. Florence Murphy, wife of "Big Tim" Murphy, who was sent to Leavenworth penitentiary for leading the Dearborn station mail robbery, entered the Fahy case with a charge that it was Fahy who blocked her husband's appeals for parole. Fahy conducted the investigation which led to Murphy's conviction.

Meanwhile, several new arrests are expected in connection with the $2,000,000 robbery, but postal officials said the new suspects were not connected with the postal department.

C. M. Clarahan, postal inspector of New York area, who came here to investigate Fahy, returned today to his eastern post, but half dozen other eastern inspectors remained to assist local officials in clearing up the case.

FATE OF SLAYERS RESTS WITH JUDGE

Justice Caverly Announces No Spectators Allowed.

PRESS AND FAMILIES PRESENT

White Hot Denunciation for Leopold and Loeb by Crowe, as He Fights Against "Peculiar" Defense.

CRIMINAL COURT ROOM. CHICAGO, Aug 28.—The fate of Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb rests in the hands of Chief Justice John R. Caverly

Justice Caverly today set the day for imposing sentence on Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb as September 10 at 9:30 a. m.

Justice Caverly also announced that on the day of sentence no spectators would be permitted. Only members of the press, members of the families of the persons involved in the case and the various attorneys would be permitted in the court room.

Before concluding the case, Justice Cavesly said he would order stricken from the testimony remarks having to do with the charge that testimony had been introduced to "intimidate the court."

"This court will not be intimidated by anyone or anything," Justice Caverly declared. He said the criticism of the length of time involved in the case and the introduction of testimony after the pleas of guilty was unfounded.

"Neither wealth nor poverty had anything to do with this case," Justice Caverly declared. "Everything done by this court was done for the purpose of justice."

Jusitce Caverly took sharp exception to the closing remarks of Crowe in which the latter told of Leopold's feeling that he would escape the gallows if brought before a friendly judge.

"I don't know whether your honor believes the testimony of Police Sergeant Gortland or not," Crowe said, "but I want to tell you if you have observed the conduct of their attorneys and their families, with one honorable exception, and that is the old man who sits in sackcloth and ashes and who is entitled to the sympathy of everybody—old Mr. Leopold—with that one exception everybody connected with Leopold, jr., did not say he would plead guilty before a friendly judge, his actions demonstrated that he thinks he has got one."

After the state rested its case, Justice Caverly ordered Crowe's remarks stricken from the records.

"The court orders stricken from the records the closing remarks of the state's attorney as being a cowardly and dastardly assault upon the integrity of this court." Justice Caverly said. "And it could not be used for any other purpose except to incite a mob to try to intimidate this court."

Crowe protested he did not mean his statement in that way, stating he merely wanted to put his personal feelings before the court.

Justice Caverly, however, held the remarks were improper and that the court had to take cognizance of them.

"The law was made to protect the innocent and the only way to protect the innocent is ot punish the guilty," Crowe said. "I heard Clarence Darrow's plea for mercy. It was an appeal to the heart and sympathies and not your mind and conscience

"These men killed a fourteen-year-old boy. Robert Franks had a right to live and his parents had a right to his society."

Crowe's argument completed the state's case Two of his assistants argued first for the death penalty. They were followed by three defense attorneys. Walter Bachrach. Clarence Darrow, chief defense counsel, and Benjamin Bachrach.

When the defense arguments were completed, Crowe started his lengthy appeal for hanging the two slayers.

"I want to tell your honor that the real defense in this case is the dangerous philosophy of life of Clarence Darrow," Crowe shouted.

"Darrow said that the greatest handicap in this case is the wealth of the two families 'I want to tell you if it wasn't for the money, Darrow and Bachrach would not be here."

Crowe then took up the "friendly judge" evidence introduced by the state A police officer testified on the stand that Leopold told him he "would go before a friendly judge and plead guilty and get life imprisonment"

The defense attacked the statement as perjury

"If Leopold did not say this, then his attitude in court here indicates he believes he has a friendly judge" Crowe cried

In closing I ask that the extreme penalty be imposed"

Hearing of evidence and arguments for and against hanging the youthful slayers of fourteen year old

THE WEATHER.

For Lincoln and vicinity: Fair tonight and Friday; continued warm.
For Nebraska Generally fair tonight and Friday, warmer southwest portion tonight.

Robert Franks was completed today with a fiery denunciation of Nathan and Richard by State's Attorney Crowe.

Crowe concluded his speech with a whirlwind of invectives. He termed the murder of Robert Franks "the direst in the history of Chicago," and the murderers he classed with rattle snakes and mad dogs. The crime was committed, he said, "simply for the $10,000 ransom."

When the state's attorney sat down, tired and perspiring from his three day argument, a few minutes were consumed in reviewing evidence on the indictment charging Nathan and Richard with "kidnaping for ransom," which was supplementary to the evidence charging them with murder. Then court was

OMAHA BELT LINE OPEN

RAILWAY COMMISSION ADHERES TO DECISION.

Denies Right of Missouri Pacific to Close Team Tracks to Shipments From Other Railroads.

The railway commission, after a rehearing and mature deliberation adheres to its former order which denies the right of the Missouri Pacific railroad company to close its team tracks on the belt line in Omaha to shipments coming in over other railroads. The decision is an adherence to an order issued by the commission February 23 on complaint of Trenmor Cone who is a dealer in sand and gravel and who has a pit on the Burlington road.

The Missouri Pacific alleged among other things, that the old belt line road in Omaha was not organized for the purpose of being a switching road but that it is an integral part of the Missouri Pacific road.

The commission finds that the rule that team tracks are private property and cannot be used for the benefit of other carriers is not without it sexceptions. Team tracks are subject to a public use. Early occupancy of certain sections of the city of Omaha by the Missouri Pacific road has prevented other carriers from establishing unloading facilities in the same sections, hence, in a wide territory that road now enjoys a monoply. Shippers must secure sand and gravel from pits on the Missouri Pacific or haul by track for a long distance across the city or pay a road haul rate.

The only rate the railroad has for team track delivery is a minimum of 3 cents a hundred which amount on a car of sand to $30 a car, a prohibitive rate. According to a witness for the railroad it has been willing to switch cars for less than half what the company witness alleges is the cost price.

The commission finds no reason to single out one particular service and ask it to pay seven or eight times what the cost is said to be. It has been performing this service for more than forty years without extra charge.

Commissioner Browne concurs in the conclusion but not as to the importance placed by the commission upon the original articles of incorporation.

UNION OFFICIAL ON HOURS AND WAGES

President of Central Labor Organization Asks for a Chance to Make the Facts Known to Public.

LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 25.—To the Editor: In your evening edition of the Journal of Monday, you have an article under the head of "Men and Things," relating to the unions of the City of Lincoln. You ask in that article why the unions of the city do not have a committee to investigate complaints and you further state "maybe they are not interested." I wish to state that we do have just such an organization as you mention—in the Central Labor Union—which is the clearing house for the unions in the city of Lincoln. It is vitally interested and any misconduct should be brought to this body's attention and not beat around the bush about it. You cite:

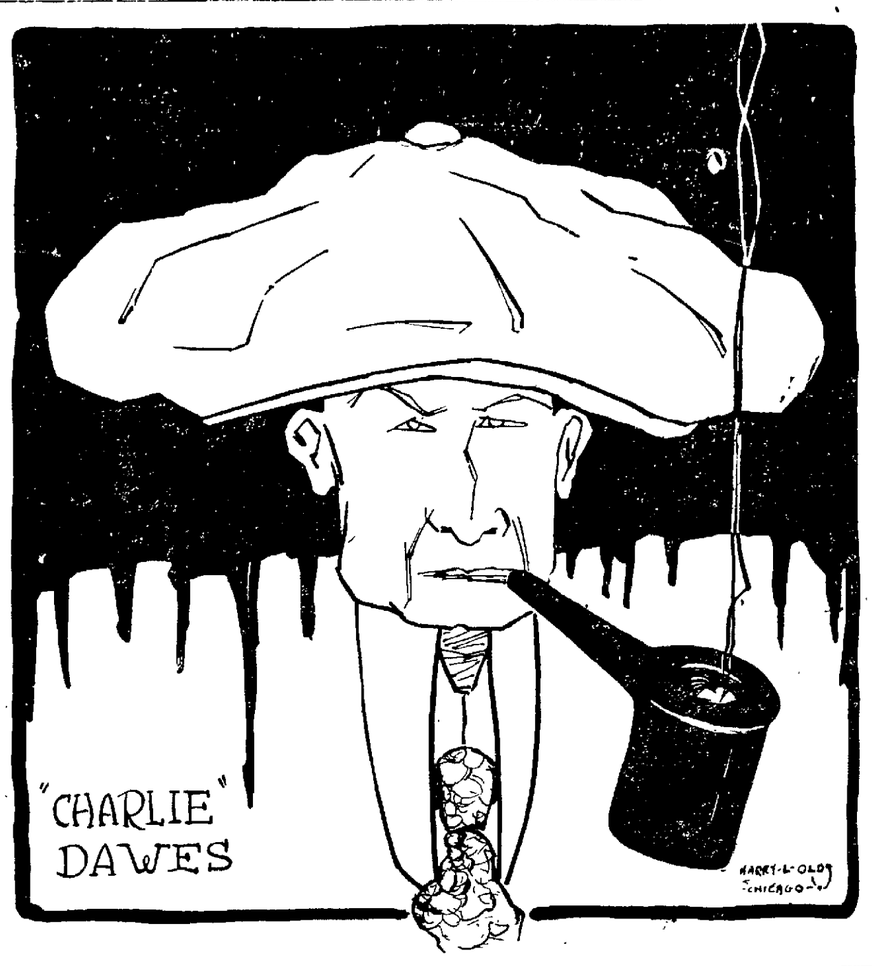

"A Lincoln man remodeled a large dwelling into an apartment house recently. One group of union workers was on the job for two weeks. The first day or so one of the men asked him if he had any objections to their taking only a half hour for lunch, which they brought with them and consumed within that time, and then quit a half hour earlier in the evening. He said he had none. Later, when the contractor presented his bill, the owner found that the union workers had collected overtime wages for this noon half hour, and he had to pay the contractor because he had not thought to mention or take up the matter with him and the spokesman for the men said that it was done at the owner's request."

Had the writer of this article stopped and studied the matter for a musa a moment he would have known that there was something radically wrong. The organization of which the writer belongs—the printers—has members of its organization going to work at 8, lunching at 11:30 and back to work at 12 and laying off work at 4:30; in other words eight hours' work. Another large plant goes to work at 7 and lays off at 3:30 having a half hour for lunch. All unions in the city are subject to international laws and those laws control the hours. As the men, as we understand it, only worked 8 hours they could not lawfully get pay for that half hour. The statement is a very lame one.

I do not believe that the union men ever received the overtime pay. It would please me very much to have any of the parties concerned in this little episode, either write me or make a date for any evening after 5 o'clack at which the matter might be looked into and if such conditions do exist—which we doubt very much—it could be straightened out. It is a strange thing that all these labor arguments have to get into the daily press and those who should know of them be told of the matter either second or third hand by which time the case has become—as a rule—so distorted that really there is nothing to it, but a bad taste in the mouth the day after.

Thanking you in advance in permitting us to have our little say, I am, Yours respectfully,

I. S. BETZER,
President, Central Labor Union of Lincoln.

STOCK SHOW TO BE BIG

More Cattle and Horses at State Fair This Year Than Ever Before, Secretary Says.

By far more cattle and horses are entered at the Nebraska state fair this year than have been shown at any of the state's fairs for the past five years. Entries in the swine, sheep, poultry and farm products classes are normal, but a 50 per cent increase is found in the domestic products class, and textiles show a substantial increase.

The state fair has more than a state wide interest, as is shown by the large number of entries from many other states. Cattle have been entered for this year's show from Texas, Wisconsin, New York and Vermont. Sheep are coming from as far north as Wisconsin and as far south and east as Florida.

"A study of the number of entries each year at the Nebraska fair since 1915 shows that they have followed the ups and downs of the state's business conditions," Secretary Danielson says. "The increase in entries this year is interpreted by many to mean that prosperity and business conditions have improved, and particularly for the farmers.

"Attendance figures for the past twenty-four years reveals the same results as the study of entry figures, that is, more people attend the fair during the prosperous years, and in view of the more promising business outlook, state fair officials are expecting and have prepared for a record-breaking attendance this year."

The gates at the state fair grounds will swing open to the public at 8 o'clock Sunday morning, August 31. Sunday afternoon and evening, Conway's band will play special programs, assisted by the Lincoln chamber of commerce glee club under the direction of H. O. Ferguson.

OBITUARY.

William A. Dobson

William A. Dobson passed away Tuesday morning, August 26, 1924, 3:45 at the National Military Home, Leavenworth, Kas., where he had been taken a short time ago for treatment. He was the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. John Dobson and was born near Osceola, Ia., Nov. 3, 1877. He was at the time of death, forty-six years, nine months, twenty-four days old.

William A. Dobson came with his parents to Nebraska when four years old, locating at Edgar. He graduated from the high school at the age of sixteen and became a rural teacher soo nafter. About this time the Spanish-American war broke and he enlisted in the First Nebraska regiment, Company H; serving in the Philippine war and the insurrection which followed.

During this time he underwnet an operation for appendicitis, from which he never entirely recovered. After the war he entered the Peru state normal, graduating in 1901, and resumed teaching. He was married to Mary McFarlane at Fairfield, Neb., on August 28, 1902 and the couple followed teaching for two years at Chester, where Will served as superintendent.

The year following both attended Cotner University where Mr. Dodbson taught science, and both graduated at the end of the year in the literary course.

The following August, Mr. and Mrs. Dobson sailed for Porto Rico as missionaires in charge of the Boys Orphanage at Bayamun for the Christian church of Nebraska. Declining health compelled the family return at the end of two years, and they settled on a homestead near Bridgeport to remaind seven years. Both taught in the public schools most of the time, Mr. Dobson as superintendent.

In 1917 Mr. and Mrs. Dobson received diplomas from the Palmer school of chiropractics and located in Carrollton, and later in Kansas City, Mo.

Four children have been born to them: Harrold, Norma, Phyllis and Roy; all at home. Other surviving near relatives are John and Sarah Dobson, parents at Upton, Wyo., two sisters, Ella Long and Iva Park of Upton; two brothers, Ed. Dobson of Panama, Neb., and Elmer Dobson of Minneapolis, Minn.

Funeral services were held at 2 o'clock Wednesday at the Protestant church at the National Military Home, where interment will be made. The services conducted by Chaplain Berry, assisted by Rev. G. L. Bush, pastor of the Christian church of Carrollton, Mo. The choir of the Ivanho Park Christian church of Kansas City furnished th emusic.

CORN CROP NEEDS RAIN

Development Has Been Rapid During Past Week, But Moisture Essential Now.

Corn development has been rapid but now needs rain, according to the weather and crop report of the weather bureau issued for the week ending August 26. The report follows:

Temperatures averaged from 4 degrees to 8 degrees above normal, and sunshine from 16 per cent to 22 per cent above. Only insignificant amounts of rain fell except in a very few scattered localities. In the southern part of the state maximum temperatures were above 90 degrees on from three to five days. Under these conditions the development of corn was rapid, but it is now beginning to need rain in many southern and central counties. Corn was damaged by hot winds in portions of south central counties, and some is being cut for ensilage. The week was very favorable for haying and threshing, and the latter is now nearing completion. Pastures and late potatoes are needing rain in many sections. In the middle Platte valley beets are reported in excellent condition and early potatoes yielding well. Apples are doing well. Fall plowing is general.

25 YEARS AGO TODAY

Lieutenant Bert Whedon returned to Lincoln looking very well for a young man who had had a Mauser bullet go thru him. He had beat the rest of the First regiment home a little.

People in the personals: Clinton M. Barr, Allen C. Fling, Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Orilvie, Miss Marie Noonan, Mrs. Oliver Carter, J. W. Searson, superintendent of the Wahoo schools.

The people of the state were much against the proposal to have the soldier boys stop in Omaha instead of going immediately to their homes.

The Lincoln gas company offered to donate two months of lighting to the city during the year and to reduce the price of illuminating gas five cents per thousand cubic feet the first of each year beginning with 1900 until the price was brought down to the price of fuel gas if the city council would agree to void the ordinance passed in January intended to reduce the price of gas.

Mrs. Emeline Peckham and Rev. John L. Gregg were married at the home of the bride, 1117 L street.

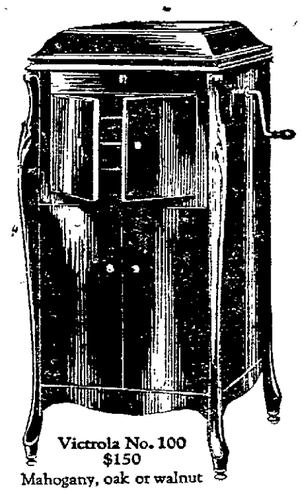

Henry Sanderson of St. Louis moved to Lincoln and would be associated with his brother, C. E. Sanderson.

Vocal Selections

Go Down Moses / Heav'n, Heav'n	Marian Anderson / Marian Anderson	19370	.75

A wonderfully beautiful and melodious fox trot, and a marvelous waltz from Victor Herbert's very last musical comedy, "The Dream Girl." A good combination to have in one record.

I Want to Be Happy—Fox Trot / I Never Care About Tomorrow—Fox Trot	Jan Garber and His Orchestra	19404	.75

A dashing fox trot, from "No Nannette," which will bring happiness to dancers. "I Never Care" is a fine companion. Irrepressible dance records.

Hinky Dinky Parlay Voo—Fox Trot Jan Garber and His Orch. / You'll Never Get to Heaven with Those Eyes—Fox Trot	George Olsen and His Music	19405	.75

"Hinky Dinky Parlay Voo" on a fox trot record. It is in a sort of two-step rhythm and has a lot of features. The reverse pairs well with it, for this record, too, has plenty of life.

Your Problems
BY MARY GORDON

Dear Mary Gordon: In writing this to you I feel a great deal like I was revealing the family skelton, but it is certainly an acute problem to me, and I have no one to go to for advice. I was left a widow at the age of nineteen with a baby girl. I came to Lincoln to work leaving my little one with my mother. At the end of two years I married a business man of the city whom I had known since a little child. He was a divorced man and about twenty years my senior, but he was so good and kind to me and promised to do so much for my little one that I could not help loving him.

Then we moved to a small town where he was in business and things did not go so well. I entered into a period of ill health which seemed to enrage him, and I also found him to be, well, almost stingy. Within the last few months we have moved back to the city and his business takes him on the road. He has been extremely successful in a business way and has certainly coined money. But he grows closer and closer every day until he will scarcely give me enough to live on.

I have to be as careful as possible and get along almost without clothes. But it seems impossible to please him. I try to talk things over with him in a sensible, logical way, but he flys into a fit of anger and curses and swears so dreadfully that I just hate to mention it. It is impossible to reason with him in any way. He pays the rent and then gives me ten dollars a week to pay gas, light, telephone, laundry, papers, milk and groceries. Well, in fact everything but the rent. And I just can't do it. I bought a little dress on sale the other day for three dollars and a pair of pumps for a dollar. And he raved and swore all night about it.

I am not well, and have to take a little medicine and he scolds all the time about it. I have had no dental work done for seven years, and need it so badly but he will not allow it. He gets his meals on the road, but truly my girl is almost grown now and we do not have enough to eat. He positively never takes me any place. We have not been to a show in four years, and I haven't been to but one picture show even in three years. I have so many dear friends, but I have dropped out of any society because if you go you must return the favors to be even decent, and he will not allow me to entertain ever. He is even insulting to my friends if they call. We have a beautiful big car but he will not let me drive it altho I have driven for ten years, and will not allow me to go driving with my lady friends. He takes trips and goes to ball games and every where he wishes, but he is so terribly jealous if I call on a neighbor he says I am calling on her husband, and if we happen to be on the street together and I speak to my groceryman he accuses me of being infatuated with him. This sounds awful, Mary, but it is awful.

I get so discouraged. And I had to tell some one. I don't whine and complain and I will not nag and quarrel. I try to keep my home attractive and maintain a cheerful atmosphere, and I am young and not so bad looking, and I surely have tried to do my part. But I don't seem to be the one to make him happy. He seems so jealous of my youth and says he wishes I were old and gray headed. I am interested in his affairs and try to talk of things that are of interest to him when he is at home, but he will not talk only to nag and complain of my terrible extravagance and how very poor he is. He is worth probably sixty thousand dollars. He told me the other night that he wants to "quit" as he phrases it, and would not support me longer. I asked what was wrong, but he will not tell me. Some times I think perhaps there is another woman in the case. I know there used to be rumors of that sort reach my ears but I never did let that disturb me.

I am not of a jealous nature and I have always trusted him. This has never been mentioned between us. Since telling me that he was "thru" I have not seen him. He had taken his clothes and gone when I awoke the next morning and has never been home or phoned, nor can I hear of him. I asked once at the office but could get no information. I am absolutely without funds and don't know what course to pursue. Above all things I wish to avoid notoriety. I think some times I would take my girl and go away, but I can't help but feel so sorry for him. He has no one in all this world but me. And has always seemed to love my girl very much. His parents are dead and he was an only child. He has not the best of health, and is getting along in years and if he would fall ill or be in trouble he has no one. I keep thinking that surely he will come to his self and be different, and if I only knew what was wrong.

Above every thing in the world he has no reason to be jealous for I am as true to him as it is possible for a woman to be to a man. Do you think I should give up all my delightful women friends, because he seems to resent my having them so much? He has not very many social friends on account of having such a surely, self-opionated sort of a disposition. But I always was real happy and sort of laughed his moods off, but this is serious. I don't know who to turn to for help and I don't dare have any groceries charged. I have no people but my parents and they are too old to be burdened with my troubles. I do not feel like running after him very much for I really don't know what is wrong. I expect this is too long for any thing but the waste basket any way, so must close, but if you could suggest anything that I can do to relieve the immediate situation or make him happier in the future, I would more than welcome it. I am not physically able to work out side my home so it sort of makes things complicated. My girl is fourteen, but has had no training in any kind of work, not being thru school yet. Do you think he would be happier in the long run if I take her and go away and try to go on my own resources, which are painfully limited? Sincerely—Margot.

A. If he has left you, as you seem to think, all you can do is to try to support yourself, in your present home or elsewhere. If you wish to stay where you are, could you not take roomers and perhaps boarders? At least you might be able to do it during fair week, by listing your name and address at the Chamber of Commerce and also at the hotels. Often times when they are full, they will recommend some private house. If you would rather start somewhere else, why not go home with your daughter for a little visit? If your husband refuses to contribute to your support, consult the city or county attorney. He will tell you steps to take to force him to do so.

Alone-in-Love: All you can do is to wait for him to make some sign that he wishes to resume the friendship. But if I were you, I wouldn't break my heart over a man like that. Unless he returns he probably cared nothing for you in the first place. There are lots of other men, my dear, who would not think of causing a girl the anxiety he has caused you.

Dear Mary Gordon: I wish to enter my nine months old baby girl in contest at state fair. Is she old enough. Is it too late? Will you kindly give me details necessary for entrance.—A Mother Who Wishes to Know.

A. No entries were made after August 12. Should you wish to enter your baby next year, you can do it any time after January 1, by sending to Secretary E .R. Danielson, of the state fair board.

Dear Mary Gordon: Will you please print a set of exercises that would help me to grow a little taller. Also my friend and I would like to know what a slumber party is.

Best wishes to your column.—Tommy Lou. and Betty Joe.

A. I don't believe any exercises would make you taller. You might send to Dr. Brady or Dr. Copeland, care of The Journal, for good "setting-up" exercises.

A slumber party is a gathering of girls at the home of one, to visit and have a friendly time and stay all night. Usually the hostess serves a dainty breakfast late next morning.

C. T. You could have your husband brought back and forced to help support yourself and baby.

A Good Recipe for Cleaning Silver.

The following mixture is excellent for washing silver: Take equal parts of common yellow soap and whiting. Melt the soap, then add the whiting and make it into a cake. Apply it with a piece of flannel and plenty of warm water, then rinse well and dry and the silver will not only look beautifully bright, but will not require cleaning so often. Use this soap for removing egg stains from spoons.

How to Treat Egg Stains.

Egg stains on table linen should be soaked in cold water before being laundered. The stains come out quite easily if treated in this way. Hot water "sets" them and makes them doubly difficult to remove.

TWO DIE IN BLAST AT FORT DES MOINES

Fifteen Others Seriously Injured in Ammonia Tank Explosion in Basement of General Store.

FORT DES MOINES, Ia., Aug. 28—The explosion of an ammonia gas tank in the basement of a general store at the entrance to the Fort Des Moines army post here this morning took a toll of two lives and caused serious injury to fifteen other persons.

The dead are two little girls, one of whom was identified as Edith Truitt, nine years old, of Fort Des Moines. Five soldiers doing rescue work who were overcome by gas, however, recovered. A check of the injured is still under way.

Those seriously injured include four children who were playing about the store.

Failure of the safety valve on the tank to work is said to have caused the explosion.

The blast literally blew the store to bits. All of the victims with the exception of the persons employed in the store were customers. They were buried in the debris in the basement when the floor gave way beneath them.

The ammonia fumes held rescuers at bay until Sheriff Park Findley arrived with deputies and tanks of chlorine gas which were used to neutralize the fumes. Heroism and quick work on the part of the Fort Des Moines fire department and army post soldiers probably saved the injured from asphyxiation.

A cordon of soldiers fought to hold hysterical mothers, seeking information concerning their children, away from the smoldering wreckage.

First aid was administered the victims at nearby homes until ambulances could be secured from Des Moines. The injured were taken to the army post hospital and to Des Moines hospitals.

The heroic efforts of Lieut. H. P. Adams of the army post probably saved the lives of two little girls who lay on top of a pile of wreckage. Lieutenant Adams entered the ruins without a gas mask and brought the two girls out.

J. R. Chamber, seventy-one-year1 old butcher, also displayed courage when he carried out two victims single handed and went back for a third. He was slightly gassed and soon recovered.

Lieut. H. C Tobin, one of the seriously injured victims, recovered $1,200 in cash scattered about the debris before he succumbed to gas.

Endorse Muny Plant Plans.

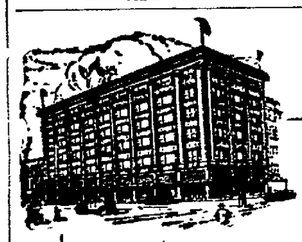

AURORA, Neb., Aug 28—Proposals for a municipal electric light plant have been endorsed by both the chamber of commerce and the Business Women's league in resolutions recently passed The city council has consulted with engineers from both Omaha and Lincoln and a preliminary survey will probably be made soon. No indication of what steps may be taken by the Continental Gas and Electric company has been given out as yet. The action is taken because of the general opinion that light and power rates here are unnecessarily high.

LATE NEWS OF YESTERDAY

HAL C. YOUNG OLD FRIEND OF DAWES

Lincoln Man Tells of Early Days in Lincoln of Vice Presidential Candidate of the Republican Party.

Hal C. Young, roommate of Charles G. Dawes in Lincoln more than thirty-five years ago, will be among the forty old friends to meet the Dawes' train at Ashland Friday morning.

"We both came from Ohio in 1887 at the same time," he said. "We didn't know each other, however, until we reached Lincoln We went out together looking for a place to live and engaged a room in the home of Rev. E H. Curtis at Fourteenth and J streets. We paid $12 a month or $6 each. The Rev. Mr. Curtis later removed his family to 425 South Thirteenth and we moved along. We had a wood stove in our room and during the big blizzard in the late eighties, we awoke one morning to find our bed surrounded by snow.

"We wore the same collars and the same ties. When the laundry came back, the first one to get to it took his pick. Mrs. Dawes told me that quite often she found his collars with my initials on them and I recall that for a long time after he was married, I wore collars with C. H. on them.

"He first went to work in the J. E. Utt paper mill keeping books at $50 a month I was with Frank Sheldon, real estate dealer, and later went into a bank/ Charlie took up the law, became interested in railroad rates and took an office with the firm of Harwood, Ames & Kelly. He was extremely popular, full of life and a good mixer. He never missed church on Sunday nor a show during the week. He was clever and sympathetic and always willing to go more than fifty-fifty. At parties, he looked out for those who were not having as much fun as some others. He wanted everyone to have a good time. The kids all loved him and he was fond of them. Some of his very close friends were Charles A. Hanna, J. W. McDonald, John Cunningham, S. H. Burnham and members of the Harris family. He had a faculty of making friends and keeping them. Whenever I'm in Chicago, I go to see him and we talk over those early days."

Found Relief in Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Always Recommends It.

Bridgeport, Connecticut.—"I was completely run-down, had headaches, dizzy, faint feelings and other troubles women often have. As I had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before, my husband said to take it again. I have now taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine, the Liver Pills, and six boxes of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Tablets. I am feeling very good now and shall continue taking them for a while. I have been telling my cousin about the medicine and she wants to take it, too. I always recommend it."—Mrs. HENRY C. SMITH, R. F. D. No. 3, Box 6, Bridgeport, Conn.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a splendid medicine for such conditions. It has in many cases relieved those symptoms by removing the cause of them. Mrs. Smith's experience is but one of many.

In a recent country-wide canvass of purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, over 121,000 replies were received, and 98 per cent. reported they were benefited by its use. For sale by druggists everywhere.

STATE INSTITUTION COSTS

Orthopedic Hospital Highest While Institute for Feeble Minded at Beatrice Is Lowest.

The state board of control has compiled a statement showing the per capita cost of state institutions and the number of inmates for the past three fiscal years, ending July 1, 1924.

In these three yearly periods the average per capita cost was respectively $287.08, $296.15 and $260.25.

The populations of all institutions under the board during these periods was 5,802, 5,940 and 6,052. This increase in population of institutions may call for somewhat larger appropriations from the next legislature. The board will have sufficient funds to run the institution to the end of the biennium.

The state institute for feeble minded youth at Beatrice, has the lowest per capita cost for the three years, as follows: $181.52, $189.05, and $175.50.

The board states that it is unfair to compare this institution with the orthopedic hospital where the number of inmates is smaller and more care is required in hospital treatment to cure physical defects in crippled children. The per capita cost for each of the three years was $844.54, $768.75 and $636.80.

The boys industrial school at Kearney is one institution where the per capita cost increased. For the three years the cost per pupil was $380.05, $381.06 and $411.51.

The per capita cost per prisoner at the penitentiary in three years was $307 62, $324.59 and $294.22.

The per capita cost at the Lincoln hospital for the insane for the three years respectively, $222.56, $231.27 and $312.52.

At the soldiers home at Grand Island the cost was $299.40, $347.95 and $313.

HEARING IS WAIVED BY WILLIAM PARKER

Man Charged With Possessing Counterfeit Money and Molds for Its Manufacture Will Face Grand Jury.

William N. Parker waived a preliminary hearing before United States Commissioner Whitmore on a charge of possessing counterfeit money and molds for its manufacture, and was taken to jail to be held for the federal grand jury. His stepson, Eldon Outz, nineteen years old, was released to his employer. Mrs. Nellie Calvert pleaded not guilty to concealing knowledge of the alleged counterfeiting enterprise, and will have a preliminary hearing Monday morning at 11 o'clock.

The men were arrested Monday night after circus men and Capital Beach concessions proprietors had complained that they were passing counterfeit coins. Mrs. Calvert was taken into custody Tuesday afternoon for questioning, and spent the night in jail. She told officers, and later Judge Whitmore, that she had no knowledge whatever of the counterfeit plant and money, found at the Parker home, and her husband, A. C. Calvert, provided the $1,000 bond required by the government.

Mrs. Calvert and Mrs. Hazel Robertson, who was arrested in Auburn and has not yet been brought to Lincoln, were said by Parker to have planned a trip with him and an alleged accomplice not yet apprehended, on which they were to circulate bogus dollars at various county fairs. He declared both women had seen the equipment and counterfeit money, but this Mrs. Calvert firmly denies.

Complaints against the four were filed Wednesday afternoon by George L. Smith, government agent who has been working on the case. The molds and a stack of counterfeit dollars were found at the Parker home. 915 North Fifteenth.

Chester J. Brown, 1318 South Ninth, left Sunday for Chicago and from there he will go to Tulsa, Okl. for a month.

BITTER OVER COMING CASE

LAFOLLETTE-WHEELER MANAGER MAKES A PROTEST.

Declares Trial of Montana Senator for Alleged Misuse of Senatorial Office Prostitution of Department of Justice.

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—Bitterly scoring what he termed as "prostitution of the department of justice in politics," John M. Nelson, LaFollette-Wheeler national campaign manager, in a statement issued today protested against the forcing of Senator Wheeler to arial on charges of misusing his senatorial office on September 1, the day he had set to open his speaking campaign in the east.

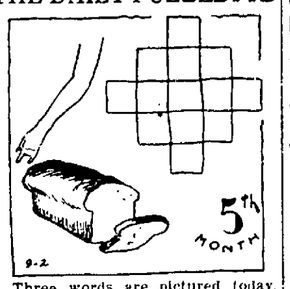

"Senator Wheeler has been demanding a trial of his case ever since last May," Nelson said. "It was only after he had announced the opening of his speaking campaign in Boston on Labor day that he was notified he would be arraigned that very day.

"Having failed to prevent Senator Wheeler from going on with the investigation of the department of ustice by a framed up indictment, the republican party now seeks to prevent him from carrying the facts of this corruption to the people of the country by bringing him to trial in the midst of this campaign.

"The action of the Montana district attorney in rearigning Senator Wheeler on September 1 is a clear indication that the department of justice is to be used an adjuct of the republican national committee in the campaign."

Wheeler was exonerated in the senate by a vote of 56 to 5, the statement says, and "agents of the republican national committee, the department of justice and the copper interests are moving heaven and earth in an effort to make a case which will not be dismissed by the judge for lack of evidence."

STORM MAY DELAY FLIGHT

TERRIFIC WIND LASHES ARCTIC WATERS TO A FURY.

Gale Swings North From Maine Coasts, Accompanied by a Heavy Rainstorm at Ivigtut, Where Birdmen Wait.

ABOARD THE U. S. S. RICHMOND, Aug. 28.—A terrific storm lashing the Arctic waters into a fury along the route which America's fliers expect to hop to Labrador, may further delay the flight.

The trip from Ivigtut to Indian Harbor has already been postponed at least until tomorrow, owing to adverse weather reports and poor facilities for installing new motors in the two planes. The Richmond is now anchored at Ice Tickle harbor, just three miles west of Indian Harbor.

The gale swung north from the Maine coast Tuesday and hit here late Wednesday afternoon. It was accompanied by a heavy rainstorm. Reports from Ivigtut are tha rain is falling there.

Present plans call for the fliers to arrive at Ice Tickle harbor a wide circular cove. During the flight the Richmond will be stationed twenty-five miles out from the harbor.

PLAN OPIUM LEGISLATION.

GENEVA, Aug. 28.—The fifth annual assembly of the League of Nations which has been summoned for September 1, is scheduled to whip into shape two new international conventions that are expected to render effective what is known as the American program on opium and harmful drugs. This program as first enunciated in the Porter house resolution adopted by the United States congress, and later, thru the efforts of congressman Porter, accepted by the League of Nations as the basis and ultimate object of its fight against opium, demands the limitation of production of all harmful drugs to the world's actual medical and scientific needs. As long, the program declares, as the world is allowed to produce more of these drugs than is needed for the above object, just that long will it be impossible to prevent the unlawful traffic in them and their eventual arrival into the hands of dope fiends.

FORD DENIES KLAN SPEECH

Declares He Gave No Interview to Anyone, Defending the Hooded Organization.

DETROIT, Aug. 28.—Henry Ford, homeward bound on his yacht, in Lake Ontario, used the wireless last night to repudiate an interview defending the klan, purported to have been given out by him in Montreal.

"Gave no interview to anyone. Did not discuss the klan in any manner whatsoever. Please make absolute denial of the false report," said the manufacturer's message to officials at his Dearborn office.

Ford officials, on learning of the story, doubted its authenticity and promptly wirelessed the manufacturer.

CHARLES G. DAWES, most spectacular---most talked of man in the country today, was once a struggling young lawyer in Lincoln. He came here in 1887 and remained until 1904. He did not accumulate a fortune at the bar but he did make lasting friends. He was a warm foe of the railroads and took a big hand in the anti-monopoly fight. The farmers were in battle array over freight rates and Dawes was their champion.

He entered politics in 1896 on behalf of the McKinley campaign and was comptroller of the currency from 1897 to 1902. He was a member of the allied purchasing board during the war and was made chairman of the budget commission. Later he gained world-wide note thru his work on the Dawes reparation commission.

He is called the great peacemaker because of his direct connection with the movement looking to a permanent and lasting peace. He comes to Lincoln not to make peace, but to declare war on those who would make light of the constitution.

Good Night Stories

DAVID MEETS A BUSY LITTLE WORKER.

DAVID almost stopped breathing when a glorious red-spotted, purple butterfly settled on a low branch of the apple tree above his head.

It certainly was a beautiful butterfly. In coloring it was a deep purplish black, with rows of white dots along the borders of its wings. Underneath it was a most beautiful reddish-brown. The sunlight on the fairy creature's wings made them iridescent.

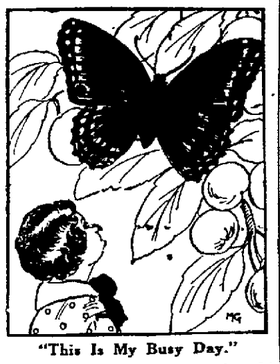

"Oh, you beautiful, beautiful butterfly," David whispered, almost afraid of frightening the beautiful creature away. "What kind of butterfly are you?"

"Who, I?" asked the butterfly. "Is it me that you're calling beautiful? I suppose you are flattering me so you can get close enough to catch me" And she held herself ready to sail away at a second's notice.

"Indeed, you are mistaken," said David softly. "I have never yet tried to catch a butterfly. I think they are too pretty and happy to make prisoners. But I would love to know your name."

"And you shall know," laughed the butterfly. "I am Mrs. Red-spotted Purple, at your service. I'm certainly glad that there are some little boys who won't harm us. But, goodness, I mustn't chatter so, for this is my busy day. I'm laying eggs."

"What! On the apple tree?" exclaimed David. "I always thought you butterflies laid your eggs on flowers."

"This Is My Busy Day."

"Not red-spotted purple butterflies," replied the little creature. "I always choose either an apple, pear or cherry tree on which to lay my eggs. They are not in so much danger on those trees.

"Right here on the very end of a leaf I shall lay them," and Mrs. Red-spotted Purple Butterfly placed a tiny little egg on the tip-end of a pointed leaf.

"Now, in just about three days," she added, "the eggs will hatch and I'll have a nice family of caterpillars. They are such cunning little things and so tidy. They eat up the egg-shells after they are hatched."

"How long will it be before they turn into butterflies?" asked David.

"Oh, several weeks," replied Mrs. Red-spotted Purple. "They change their coats four or five times before they begin spinning their webs—"

"Spinning webs!" David interrupted. "Do your children spin webs?"

"Certainly they do," laughed the butterfly. "These youngsters will spin on the bark of this apple tree. Then they'll catch their hind legs in the web and hang, head down, until it is time for them to turn into butterflies.

"Generally it takes about ten days for the final change. Do you know that the caterpillars hatched from the eggs I lay in the Fall have to build a hard case over themselves and sleep until spring?

"These eggs that I'm putting here now will go through all the changes that make them over into butterflies in less time, because the weather is warm.

"Now, if you'll excuse me, I'll be on my way."

Without waiting for a reply, Mrs. Red-spotted Purple Butterfly spread her wings and sailed off through the orchard.

MY HUSBAND'S LOVE

Adele Garrison's New Phase of

Revelations of a Wife

(C) 1924, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Why Madge Had a Sudden Pang as She Brought Mollie Fawcett Into Her Home.

WHENEVER I approach the farmhouse which Dicky and I have transformed into the sort of home we both like, I always feel a little quickening of my pulses, and a sensation of warmth such as one has when coming suddenly into the sunlight, or drawing near to an open fire. It is as if the old house were sentient, and returned to me the very real affection I bear it.

The moment of my arrival with Mollie Fawcett was no exception to the rule. The jealousy and mental disturbance of my journey home vanished somewhere between the gate and porch, and it was with a mind nearer peace than I had dreamed possible that I turned to the girl beside me, and said cordially.

"Welcome to our home, Miss Fawcett."

She was looking around her with widespread interest, but she turned to me instantly.

"Thank you," she said earnestly "I have never seen a house that looked so like a real home before—the real home I have read about. I have never known one, you know, for I have always lived in the city."

The Winning of Junior.

"It is I who should thank you for that pretty speech," I smiled, and then the door was thrown open tumultuously, and Junior rushed out so fast that he would have tumbled down the steps into an ignominious heap had not I caught him in my arms, lonesome for the clutch of his tiny hands even though so short a time had elapsed since I had seen him.

The door behind him appeared filled with heads, for Katherine and Marion, with Katie close behind them, were standing in it, and as Junior after kissing me rapturously voiced his never-failing question, "What did you bring me, Mama?" I saw all three pairs of eyes fixed in amazement—and admiration upon the vision of youthful loveliness by my side.

"Ma-ma, did you bring me a little boy to play wif?"

Junior's voice rose insistently, and there was a threat of tears in it. Ever since the departure of his cousins, the Harrison children, Junior has mourned them, and especially has he misled Roderick, the youngest of the four. Persistently he has demanded "another little boy."

"Wouldn't a big girl do?"

It was Mollie Fawcett's lilting voice that asked the question, and the next second she had gone down on her knees beside Junior, who, clinging to my skirts after I had put him down, looked at her with the curious appraisement of childhood.

"I can play just as well as a little boy," she coaxed, "and besides, I know lots of stories little boys don't know."

"You're So Pretty!"

That she was one of those rare women whose understanding of the child mind is so innate and thorough as to appear uncanny, I knew when I saw Junior move toward her almost as if hypnotized.

"Will you tell me a story now?" he demanded.

I was amazed at the storm of jealous fury that suddenly swept over me at the sight of my small son in the circle of those slender arms watching her lovely face with eager expectant eyes. It was the same look he always gave me when I promised him a story. For Junior is a miniature Schariar, who would tax the powers of a dozen Scheherazades. But honesty compelled me to admit that he bestowed the same rapt gaze upon Katherine or Marion or his grandmother or even Katie when a story was in question.

I knew that it was not my small son's apparent desertion of me which stung, but the fact that he so quickly had yielded allegiance to Mollie Fawcett, and it needed only his hand uplifted to touch her face and his awed murmur, "You're so pretty, just like a picture," to whip my nerves into a state where I was not quite responsible for anything I might say or do.

Had my small baby boy inherited the temperament of his father and the inordinate admiration of beauty whether of sky, of flowers or of women's fair faces, which had made Dicky so unstable?

It was Katherine who saved me from betraying my secret feeling and forever after being bowed to the dust in humiliation, Katherine whose profession it has been for so long to watch for the danger signals thrown out by frayed nerves. I saw her stoop to Marion's ear and then come swiftly down the steps, followed by Lillian's winsome young daughter.

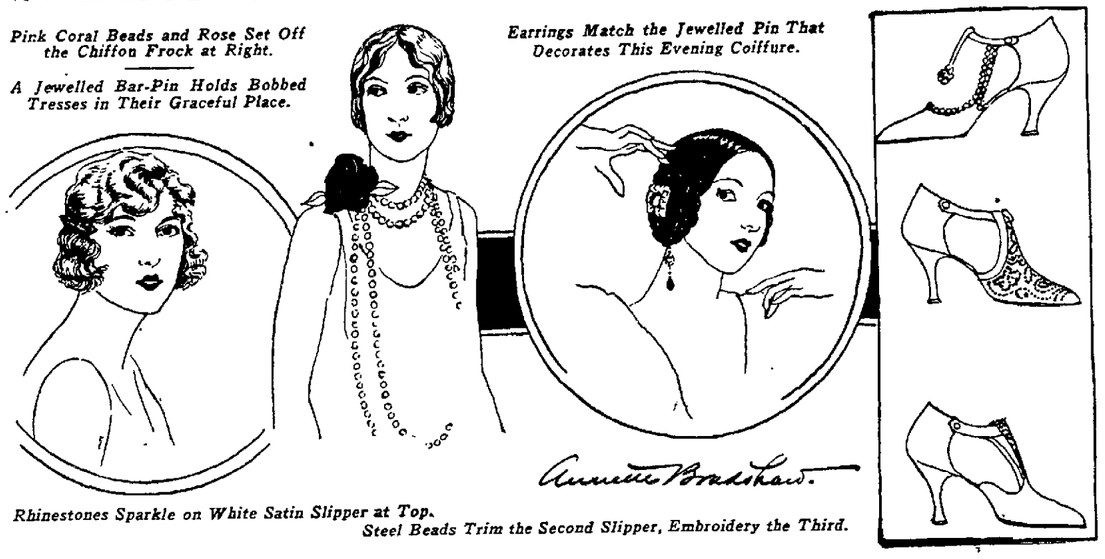

"Madge, dear!" she said throwing her arms around me, an exaggerated greeting which I knew was meant solely to keep my face against her shoulder that Mollie Fawcett might not read and interpret the expression upon it. "How glad I am to see you! Lillian telephoned you were on the way, and breakfast is almost ready for you. That's right, Marion. Take Junior to gather the eggs. You shall have the story very soon, Junior, but just now run quick and get some nice fresh eggs for Mother's breakfast."

Evening Gown Simplicity Makes Lovely Accessories Truly Important

By ANNETTE BRADSHAW

THE evening gowns of the season are relatively simple, either filmy layers of chiffon or straight sheaths of satin beaded in rhinestones and pearls.

Because of this smart simplicity, the accessories which make the evening outfit more interesting still are of paramount importance. The happy choice of the right rose, or string of beads, or jeweled pin can make the costume one of striking individuality.

Interesting accessories are shown above. They include jeweled ornaments for the hair, interesting beads and a shoulder rose, as well as slippers of unique cut and ornamentation.

At the left we have a jeweled barpin to hold the tresses of the bobbed haired miss in place. This serves a useful mission, for if bobbed hair shows the side part the loose ends are very likely to drop down over the eye unless they are caught back with some becoming catch. This barpin is a long, slim affair of rhinestones.

Next to this is shown a most effective string of pink coral beads, long enough to be wrapped around the neck several times. These are worn with a white chiffon dress, and the only other color touch appears in the deeper-tinted pink rose caught in the beads at the right shoulder.

The girl at the right, who clings to her long tresses, arranges them in braided wheels at the sides, and thrusts jeweled pins into the center of each wheel.

The shoe at the top is of white satin trimmed in rhinestones, with an amusing little rhinestone ball at the front. Below this is a gray satin slipper trimmed in steel beads, while the shoe shown lowest in the sketch is of bright green satin, with silver embroidery on the front strap.

YOUR HEALTH

Watch Your Diet Wisely and Weigh What You Should

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
United States Senator from New York,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

DR COPELAND

WHAT do you consider the surest health rule? If there were a lot of doctors with me as I write, I should ask each one to give me his opinion. I wish they were here, but anyhow I'll venture to express my opinion. It is this:

The surest guarantee of long life lies in temperate eating.

Thomas Carlyle was a great philosopher, rather cynical at times, it must be confessed. He said lots of things I don't believe, but here is one of his statements which I applaud:

"Most men dig their graves with their teeth."

You can learn a lot about people by watching them. Of course you won't spy on anybody, but casual observation will teach you many important lessons.

Almost always the individual who enjoys his meals to the utmost, who takes "just a little more" of this and that, who never fails to accept a helping or two of every dish, who wants the recipe of some particularly rich concoction—that individual is above the normal weight and is on the way to dangerous obesity.

I admire plumpness. Reasonable plumpness is to be preferred above scrawniness. But the plumpness of thirty is too apt to result in the burdensome fatness of fifty or sixty if we don't watch out.

Over-eating and under-exercising are the causes for the overweight of most persons. Why, then, be fat?

I wish I could impress upon every reader that excess of flesh is not to be worried over because it is a damage to beauty. It means more than an ungainly figure. It means a fatty heart, fatty kidneys and a liver packed with obstructing fat, and lowered vitality. Persons who permit themselves to grow too fat have actually reduced their chances of living.

You must watch your diet and reasonably limit your intake of fats, sugar and starches. Make use of the scales. Weigh yourself at least once a week. If you find you have gained weight, reduce the fat-producing foods

It is within your power to keep yourself fit. Laziness and self indulgence are fatal to your figure and they will shorten your days. You cannot afford to endanger your health and prospects by unlimited indulgence.

The activities of Summer usually take off flesh. Do not permit yourself to add flesh when Summer ends. Keep up your exercises and strictly limit your eating of fat-producing foods.

WINIFRED BLACK

WRITES ABOUT Marriage Agency Luck

Copyright, 1924, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Winifred Black

WILL C. Wood, Superintendent of Instruction of the State of California, is thinking of asking the State to open and operate a State matrimonial bureau.

Mr Wood is besieged by man after man writing to ask if he can't get a nice, pretty school teacher for him to marry.

Also Mr. Wood is besieged by letters from teachers asking him if he can't find a good, big, manly man who wants to be married and give some nice, good-humored teacher a home and something to do besides teaching school.

Strange idea, this matrimonial agency business!

I knew a man once who wrote to a matrimonial agency for a wife.

The man was a well-to-do bachelor in a country town and there were plenty of girls right there in his own village who would have been quite pleased to consider marriage with him.

There was Hilda Peterson, for instance—Hilda was tall and blonde and rosy. She had hair like cornsilk and the loveliest blue eyes you ever saw, also she could drive a tractor and boss a threshing-machine gang just as well as any man.

Too Near to Be Seen.

And down the road a little farther than Hilda's, lived Mary Caldecott.

Mary was little and rather pretty and full of fun, and Mary sang in the choir and Mary made her own clothes and mighty good clothes they were, too.

Mary might have listened to the bachelor if he had learned how to speak the right sort of words to her.

North of Mary lived Judith Smith.

Judith was slim and slender, silent and a bit sanctimonious.

Judith had a class in Sunday School, and she wore her own hair in a braid till she was eighteen years old. She could make biscuits that were as light as a feather, and nobody had such geraniums in their garden as the geraniums that Judith had—she would have made an excellent wife for the lone bachelor.

Little Kitty Muggins, down by the post office, was crazy to marry—just crazy, and she wasn't in love with any particular man.

She was the widow's daughter there in the village and she was tired of always staying at home and taking care of the younger children and helping her mother sew and mend for them.

Yes, I think Kitty might have married the lone bachelor if he had been sensible enough to ask her.

He Passed Romance By.

But he couldn't see anything at all in the girls he'd known all his life. They were so commonplace, so everyday—and what he wanted was romance and plenty of it!

So he wrote to the matrimonial bureau and the bureau sent him a picture of a beauteous creature who looked like the heroine of a three-volume novel, and the lone bachelor sent the beauteous creature a ticket and he went and met her at the train and she wore a veil and they went straight to the parsonage and were married.

When the beauteous creature took off her veil, she turned out to be at least fifty years old, and the lone bachelor hadn't lived with her a week before he discovered that she couldn't cook and couldn't sew and couldn't bake, and wouldn't sweep and didn't like music and wasn't going to break her back in any fool garden—and the lone bachelor wished he was dead, and all the village knew it and all the village laughed.

All except Kitty—she cried.

Romance sometimes lives right next door, doesn't it, if we only knew where to look for it.

Poor Lone Bachelor. I wonder how many times he is going to wish he'd never heard the word "romance"

WHERE SPECIAL CUSTOMS MEN SEARCH FLYERS.

THE American traveler from the land which invented the airplane finds its highest development in Europe. There are air lines from all capitals to all important points of the Continent, operating daily with high efficiency and a minimum of accident.

and luggage. The first surprise is the abuse of the company to carry two or three trunks per passenger if necessary. It's only half an hours journey to the landing station, where the Le Hanley plane is waiting.

Up a narrow gangplank into a comfortable little cabin with twelve comfortable wicker chairs you go. There are a pilot, conductor and pilot up in the nose of the boat out of sight. There is luggage space at the rear, where the trunks and bags are placed. Round portholes at eye level enable you to look out, but there are no facilities for looking down.

It's a rough day on the channel. You pity the passengers on the boats tossing about below. Occasionally, the plane makes a movement that reminds you of a fast-dropping elevator, but it is only a moment. A lady passenger is sick up forward, but most of the passengers are business men who have made the trip many times and think nothing of it. Now you are sailing over France. They say the plane is making between sixty and seventy miles per hour and could go faster.

Somebody sights a plane ahead. It is a rival company flying the French flag and she gives us a wide berth Airplanes are more cautious than ships. The panorama of France is spread beneath you—a bird's-eye view which changes with great rapidity. A second hour has passed and then a half hour. Somebody notices the Eifel tower, a dot ahead, and points excitedly. In no time Paris comes over the horizon. The plane begins a gentle movement downward and with hardly a bump settles on the ground.

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By ANNIE LAURIE

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl eighteen years old and go with a young man two years my senior. I love him very much, and he says he loves me.

We had a quarrel a few days ago and we broke up It was a small quarrel about our mothers

Is it proper for me to give back my wrist watch which I received from him as an engagement gift?

I love him very much and feel as though I can't give him up.

What should I do in a case like that? HEARTBROKEN JAY.

HEARTBROKEN JAY: How foolish of you two young people to break up your happy betrothal just because of a trifling quarrel I suggest that instead of sending back your watch you write asking him to come and see you on a certain evening

When he comes, see that you do your part toward earning your happiness by owning up that you are sorry you quarreled This should set things right And I surely hope it will, my dear.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

SATURDAY, AUGUST 30.

The forecast for this day is not entirely propitious, since the important planets are found in conflicting attitudes toward mundane affairs. Under this reign it would be wise to refrain from vital moves, to shun all manner of money risks and avoid quarrels and impetuosity. Those in the employment of others should be careful not to give offence to those over them. The mental condition may be stimulated to undertake deep thought or profound study

Those whose birthday it is may look for a rather complicated year, in which their calm judgement and studious mental attitudes may be brought to bear upon confronting difficulties. Those in the employment of others should be careful. A child born on this day may have a deep mental equipment, but will be free and generous to excess, squandering its hard-earned substance. It will succeed in the employment of others and hold good position in life if carefully trained.

How to Bring New Beauty to Your Ankles and Calves

By LUCREZIA BORI

The Famous Spanish Prima Donna

WELL-SHAPED legs are so often seen in young girls in their teens and early twenties, and so often these same young girls lose the firm, graceful contour of their legs as they grow older.

What is the cause of this?

Why, the answer is simply that the vigorous activities of the younger woman, as tennis playing, walking, dancing and such keep her legs in an excellent, well-rounded, firm condition.

As she grows older, she indulges in fewer and fewer of the very active exercises. Of course, most women in this day and generation walk a good deal, it is true, but so many of them neglect daily opportunities to get in healthful walking exercise.

Stand Flat, Then Rise on Your Toes High as You Can.

The woman who has her own motor acquires the luxurious habit of riding everywhere she goes If her shopping tour is to take her only a few blocks down the street, she climbs into her car and alights at the door of the shop. This is easy and pleasant, of course. It saves time, and it enables her to keep fresh and dainty longer than if she were to be jostled a bit in the crowd.

But the thing she fails to take into account is the amount of fat that is accumulated by this same luxurious habit. Her muscles grow softer and more flabby, and her legs lose their firm contour. And after all, one enjoys a motor much more when one is slim and lithe and graceful than when one is fat, for the assurance of an attractive appearance makes everything more enjoyable

Of course there are many, many women who have no opportunity to allow their muscles to grow flabby by motoring everywhere they go. But in the city the street cars are most convenient, and dozens of women climb upon a street car to ride a few blocks, when the walk would do much for them in the way of muscle-strengthening and improving the beauty contour of their legs.

Walk whenever you can. This is my best advice to all women who want to keep young and lithe and active.

And do not make the fatal mistake of walking in high heels that contract the muscles at the back of your calves and stretch the muscles at the front of your legs. Wear sensible, low heels so your legs can get the amount of exercise they need to keep in shape.

Here is an exercise in addition. Go through the following movements every day in your own room, and insure for yourself a firm, well-rounded calf.

Stand flat on your feet.

Now rise on your toes as high as you can. When you feel you have reached your fullest height, pause and try to rise still higher.

Return your heels to the floor, and repeat until tired.

You may find it necessary to grasp the foot of the bed, or some convenient post to steady yourself.

The Authority on Home Cooking

Making the Delicious Most of the Grape Season.

WHEN our vineyard consists of one or two grape vines, we don't have very many more grapes than we can eat fresh from the vines. But when we have more than that we should certainly conserve them in some of the many ways that are known for Winter use. The seeds are an objection in doing the grapes up in preserve form, yet sometimes they are spiced whole and make very good sauce to eat with cold meat in this way. Many people who have plenty of grapes cut the perfectly matured bunches and after dipping the ends of the stems in sealing wax, pack them in sawdust to keep for early Winter use. If not too ripe when picked they usually keep beautifully. The following recipes are all tried and tested and will be found easy to follow.

Spiced Grapes.

Wash and pull four pounds of black Isabella grapes from their stems without crushing the fruit Put a pint of water and a pound of sugar into a kettle with a good-sized spice bag, then add a teaspoonful of cloves, a few sticks of broken cinnamon and a small blade of mace. Cook gently for five minutes, skim, and add the grapes Cook gently, skim well, and when the grape pulps are glassy looking and the preserve has cooked rather thick, remove from the fire and can as usual Turn the jars upside down to cool and seal tightly.

Grape Catsup.

Take five pounds of ripe Concord or Isabella grapes and wash them. Then stem them and put into a kettle with a pint of water. Heat slowly, then boil gently until the grapes are soft, strain through a fine sieve, return the juice to the kettle and add to it a pint of vinegar, two pounds of sugar, and a teaspoonful each of cinnamon, cloves, allspice and a half teaspoonful each of pepper and salt Boil gently until melted and blended, skim, then boil until the catsup is thickened to the usual consistency—then bottle, cork and seal. When cold, label and store in a cool dry place, but not where it will freeze

Grape Jelly.

Wash, stem and place five pounds of ripe black grapes in a preserve kettle with a cupful of water Melt slowly and cook gently until the grapes are soft, then turn them into the jelly bag and drip until slightly cool Put on rubber gloves and squeeze gently until the juice has been extracted Measure the juice, and to each pint add a half pint of sugar. Reheat, boil gently, skim carefully and try on a cold plate. When the syrup begins to jell on the cold plate it is done Pour into hot glasses and stand to jell When jelled, cover as usual Sometimes it is a good idea to slice two sour apples into the kettle with the grapes when they are cooking This supplies enough pectin to make sure the jelly will jell perfectly and it also adds a little tart flavor.

HABIT HAS A BIG EFFECT

Keeps Many From Owning Their Own Homes, Says H. J. Theobald.

Habit is held responsible for holding people off from buying homes, in the opinion of H. J. Theobald of the Star Real Estate company. It's the habit of putting things off. Many people have formed this habit and it holds them back from doing many things they dream about.

"I believe that theer is embedded in the hearts and lives of almost every normal man and woman a deep desire and a determination to sometime own a home," he said "The common enemy of many another noble ambition or resolve namely procrastination. 'Property is too high.' 'Wait until I have a larger amount of money to pay down, or more time to look around and find a snap, are the common and almost daily excuses offered.

"Days and months pass and our procrastinating friends finds when he looks around again to buy a home, that property has advanced in price, the money he had when he was in the market before, instead of increasing has been spent for things that perish with the usinf, and alas, there still are no snaps on the market

"Personally I am glad there are no great sacrifices in property in Lincoln That is one reason why it pays to own your own home in our beautiful city. Situated as it is in the heart of a very rich agricultural section, which is old enough to be on a firm and stable basis; with a public school system rarely equaled, and the center of a great state university and agricultural college which is bringing over 10,000 students each year to our city; with a new state capital building that is challenging the attention of other states of the union, with her fine railroad facilities for a jobbing and commercial center, nothing can check the continued growth of our fair city, and in the prosperity of such growth every home owner derives a profit and a deep satisfaction

"We do not want any boom, but I am firmly convinced that we are assured of a continued, steady, substantial, healthy growth. In a city like Lincoln, that is backed by substantial resources, that is wide awake and growing, where values are steady and sure, no better place can be found in which to Own Your Own Home. I know of not city the size of Lincoln in the great agricultural section of our country that is so ideal in which to live.

"Besides the financial gain to be derived in owning a home, there is a greater gain in the satisfaction and contentment of living in your own home. A Home Owner becomes vitally interested in his community, is a part of it, has a greater credit, and is bound to "Grow With Lincoln."

"The selection of a home is quite an important matter. Decide as near as you can the kind of a home you would like to purchase. The section of the city you prefer to live in. The size and style of the house and about what you can afford to invest in a home. Then see your realtor and tell him your wants He will be perfectly willing to put his time against yours and show you the best bargain he has in the kind of houses you desire. If he cannot find what you want, and save you money in the purchase of the same he ought not and will not expect to sell you. Canvass the matter thoroly and if you cannot find the house that suits you for the price you feel that you ought to pay, purchase a cheaper property that serves your needs and make a start. When you have paid on this home for a time and your equity is sufficient to enable you to make a payment on the kind of a home you want, you will be able to sell your property or exchange it for your permanent home and finish paying the balance on a satisfactory payment plan. Many have done this in the past, are doing it today, and there is no reason why you cannot acquire a home to your liking in the same manner. The realtor knows where the bargains are, and will safeguard you as to the closing of the transaction, see that you have your title examined, all papers properly executed, possession secured, and the details of the contract carried out.

"Personally I believe that the present is a good time to buy. Property values have been quite stationary for about two years, but with the large crops which are now practically assured, and the fine prices that are now prevailing for all kinds of agriculutral products, a large amount of money will be placed in circulation in Nebraska Our entire population has been buying slowly for the past year, but the time is now at hand when new commodities must be bought and a buying period will start. It will have its tendency to increase the price of all commodities, and this will also effect the price of all materials that go into a home, during the last thirty days there has been an upward tendency in the cost of building material and this will doubtless increase as the new year approaches with its larger building activities.

"The condition of the man who is paying rent is aptly set forth in the following little poem I found the other day:

'I know some folks who are paying rent
They've done it now for years
They're always broke or badly bent
And no one knows their fears.
To find a house to suit their taste
They spend a lot of time
They never think of what they waste
Or what they leave behind

If one would stop to figure up
The rent he has to pay,
In twenty years he spends enough
To take his breath away
We'll say his rent is fifty per,
And leave the moving out,
He'd spend six hundred in a year
In ten, he'd own a house.'

"Join the great throng of happy home owners of Lincoln."

CAN YOU SOLVE---

The Puzzle of the Pauncefote Letter

(One of the World's Great Detectives Did)

The more that M. Goron chief of the Paris police, thought about the daring robbery of the house of the Marquis Panisse-Passis, the more he came to the conclusion that it was the work of a band of particularly daring but not necessarily professional criminals

"The caretaker," he argued, "declares that the leader of the band, the man who was disguised as the officer of police, 'played his role precisely as a police officer would have done.' His uniform was perfect. His appearance, his manner, his actions —all were in keeping with the character. And the signatures on the warrant, while forged, were very cleverly done. I wonder——"

When he returned to his office, Goron gave immediate instructions that at least half of the Paris police force was to spend the next few days haunting the stage doors of the various theaters and, as Goron himself was stationed near the entrance to a small playhouse in Montmartre, he noticed a man entering whose appearance seemed to be vaguely familiar. There was something about him which recalled thoughts of Marseilles.

"'Big Paul' Landeau," he muttered, "as clever a forger as ever escaped prison. And he has turned actor, eh? I thought so."

When "Big Paul" left the theater that night he was shadowed by three of Goron's men who trailed him to his lodgings and then summoned the chief of police After listening intently at the door of the room where Landeau and some of his associates were talking, Goron hurled himself thru the flimsy wood which blocked the entrance and, almost before those inside knew what had happened, had not only arrested them but had prevented "Big Paul" from swallowing a fragment of paper which proved to contain a list of his accomplices and a coded message that, when deciphered, located the hiding place of the major portion of the loot.

"You're a good actor, Paul," Goron admitted, as he slipped the handcuffs upon his prisoner "But, in this case, you were too good. The concierge said you 'acted your role perfectly" and that, coupled with the fact that the signatures to the warrant had been forged with the exactness of long practice, provided the clues that made your arrest comparatively easy. After this, you had better stick to your own line and let stagework alone."

The Puzzle of the Pauncefote Letter.

"According to the postmark, the letter came from Detroit. But that's about all we have to go on. It's the third one that the British ambassador has received, but, until this one came, threatening an immediate attack upon his life if he did not 'make England cease her attempts to enslave the Boers,' he didn't think it worth while to call our attention to the matter.

"Now," and the chief of the United States secret service paused for a moment, "we've got to locate the writer and jail him before the makes good on his threat. Lord Pauncefote laughs at it. .Says it's just the ravings of a crank and refuses even to ride in a closed carriage. So it's up to us to protect him and do it quick.

"Notice anything unusual about the letter?"

William J. Burns, the secret service operative to whom the chief had been speaking, looked up.

"Yes," he smiled grimly. "The handwriting is disguised. But there's one very interesting point which the writer overlooked, one habit of his that will probably land him behind the bars. The last letter of each word is joined to the first letter of the word that follows. There's a sort of flowing stroke of the pen that shows——"

"Never mind your deductions," snapped the chief. "Get out to Detroit and get your man!"

What was it that William J. Burns deduced from this "habit of writing"? What was the important clue which this "flowing stroke of the pen" divulged and which led to the immediate solution of the puzzle of the Pauncefote letter?

The answer will appear tomorrow.

MANY HURT UPON SHIPS

waves even penetrating the engine room.

One fireman was dashed against a beam and his back broken.

A seaman, making his way along the wave washed decks, was washed overboard and then hurled back.

The same wave smashed thru the lounge room where Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Dickens of La Crosse, Wis., were sitting with their children. Dickens and one of his sons were swept clear of the room and to the deck but managed to keep from going overboard by clinging to a lifeboat.

As soon as the first force of the storm was felt the ship's surgeon organized a volunteer hospital crew and ordered whisky distributed to those most severely drenched. There were 616 passengers aboard, and not one o fthem escaped shock from the force o fthe storm.

Captain Metcalfe of the Homeric said the storm was severe for about six hours and that at times the wind seemed to blow from all points of the compass. The wind reached a velocity of 90 miles an hour and the waves were from 40 to 65 feet high.

Strikes Head on Chair.

The Giuseppe Verdi of the Italian trans-Atlantic line also was caught in the storm. A. L. Mohler, former president of the Union Pacific railway, struck his head on a chair when thrown down.

The Arabic came from Hamburg, via Southampton, Cherbourg and Halifax. It was between the latter port and New York that she encountered the hurricane Captain Hickson described the storm as the worst he ever experienced.

"Standing on the bridge" said the captain, "I figured that the crest of waves was 65 feet above the trough of the sea. Then I had to look up to see the top of the huge comber that broke over the crow's nest 35 feet above me.

"The ship was swash fore and aft, with hundreds of tons of water surging along her decks.

"It was this huge wave that did mose of the damage to the ship"

Hugh F. Mackie of Los Angeles was sitting in the lounge with his wife and 9 year old daughter when the wave struck.

Passengers and furniture were thrown into tangled confusion, he said and several persons were injured.

The Mackies remained pinned behind a settee for several hours fearing to move lest they be struck by flying furniture.

OMAHA, Aug. 28.—Injuries at sea to A. L. Mohler, former president of the Union Pacific railroad, may prove serious, because of a previous injury he received here January, 1916, friends of Mohler here said.

Dispatches told of Mohler hurting his head when he was dashed against furniture in his cabin in the Guiseppe Verdi during a terrific storm

Mohler suffered from serious injuries to his head in 1916 when he fell while skating at Miller park. He was picked up unconscious at that time and was in a serious condition for months. Mohler is seventy-four years old. He retired from the presidency of the Union Pacific and left Omaha to return to his old home in Cedar Rapids, Ia., shortly after his accident here.

Havelock.

C. M. Taylor, Valparaiso, was arrested by Officer Atkinson on a charge of operating a motor vehicle without legal license plates. He pleaded not guilty and was fined $10 and costs.

Gerald, Mason and Alice Gregg and Mrs. Anna Lacy, Denver, are here on a two weeks' visit with H. H. Gregg, 1524 L street.

Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Ross just returned from Omaha where they attended the merchants market week

Mayor Cobe Venner and family left Wednesday on a motor trip to Kansas City. They intend to be gone two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hamilton, 1227 O street, announce the birth of a daughetr (Betty Ann), August 27.

Seats have been reserved in the stadium for the Havelock shopmen Friday evening where Dawes is scheduled to speak. It is expected that about 500 will attend

COMPENSATION IS DENIED

Employe Lost Foot Between Freight Cars After Receiving Money to Pay Fare.

When an employe is given the price of railroad fare with instructions to make a journey and a foreman suggests that he sometime makes the trip by freight train and the employe mounts the side of freight train and gets between two cars and has his foot crushed and amputatin of the foot follows, the employe can collect nothing from his employer under the compensation law. Commissioner L. B. Frye rules that in such a case the employe, if he rides on a freight train, is expected to ride in a caboose if passengers are carried, and when he gets between freight cars and is injured the injury is not an accident occuring in the line of his duty or one arising in the course of his employment.

This is the holding in the case of Albert S. Higgins who is employed by the L. L. Coryell & Son Oil company at Auburn. The employe drove a car to Union and was given $1.50 to pay his railroad fare on the return journey. The accident happened last January.

Majority of Foreign Stars Put Out of Running

PLAY RESUMED IN TENNIS TOURNEY

In Place of Fallen Foreigners Several Dark Horses Spring Up—Bill Tilden Meets Yale Star Next.

BY HENRY L. FARRELL.

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 28.—With only a few foreign stars remaining in the running, the real battle for the tennis championship of the world will be waged among the leading American stars, it seemed, as the survivors resumed play today at the West Side Tennis club.

Of the imposing company of foreigners who started in the first round of the American national championship there remain only Gerald Patterson, captain of the Australian team; Jean Borotra, captain of the French team and his teammate, Rene Lacoste and the two Japanese players, Okamoto and Fukuda.

The ranking list of American players in the running for the title has been decreased only by the elimination of Howard Kinsey and Harvey Snodgrass, two California favorites. In their places, however, have sprung up a couple of newcomers to the spot light who are proudly bearing the distinction of dark horses. Prominent among these unfigured players are John Hennessey of Indianapolis; Kirk Reid, the former Cornell star from Cleveland and George Lott, the eighteen-year-old junior champion from Chicago.

Hennessey in recent weeks has become rather noted as a "foreigner killer." In the western championships he defeated Gerald Patterson and Brian Norton, the former South African. In his first round here he won from Harada, the Japanese champion and in his second match he defeated Kong, the Chinese player. Today he will oppose Borotra, who escaped elimination yesterday by inches in a five-set match against young Edward Feibleman.

Real competition, which will increase in the coming rounds, starts today with a number of fine matches that will eliminate several of the ranking players.

One of the most important matches will be between Watson Washburn, who slipped to fifteenth place on the ranking list last year and Gerald Patterson, the hard smashing Australian.

William T. Tilden, the champion, who showed all his championship class in beating Manuel Alonzo yesterday, makes his second appearance against Lucien Williams, Chicago, the former Yale star.

Billy Johnston, regarded as Tilden's chief rival, meets Wray Brown of St. Louis; Frank Hunter plays against Wallace Johnson and Young Lott opposes Arthur Chapin, who is also one of the dark horses.

The selection committee of the United States Lawn Tennis association met in secret session last night and it is understood it named two players to help Tilden and Johnston defend the Davis cup.

FORMER LINCOLN BOY TO RACE HERE

Bud Putman who has entered his Case Special racing machine in the auto races which feature the Nebraska State Fair, Labor day, Monday Sept. 1.

In the few meets in which he has started in the western states, Putman has won heavily.

Putman is a former resident of Lincoln, residing here for ten years prior to 1920, when he went east and entered the speeding game.

GOLF LESSONS.

What are some additional points in getting good tee shots and good brassie shots?

Answered by

DAVID BROWN.

Veteran tournament player, former British open champion. Noted especially for his short game and accuracy on approaches.

I recommend that the average golfer "take these tips to heart" if he wishes to improve his work with the wooden clubs. Some of the pointers also hold for the irons.

As the right elbow and left knee bend for the upward swing, pivot slightly on the ball of the left foot and a little at the waist. However, in doing this, do not exaggerate it so that the left foot feels "shaky." The left foot should always hold firmly to the ground, and at the end of the swing this foot should not have moved appreciably from its original position. As a last pointer, practice until you can bring your club down in the same arc which you use to complete the upswing. If you master this last point you will notice a decided tendency for hooks and slices to die out of your game.

CURLY BROWN TOO GOOD FOR LINCOLN

Beck Pitches Winning Ball, But Experiences Two Bad Innings, First and Ninth, When Bears Get Runs.

All that prevented Curly Brown, Denver southpaw, from turning in a shutout victory over Lincoln Wednesday, in the second game of the series; was a pair of singles in the second and an infield out. He had the Solons guessing all the rest of the way.

Leslie Beck, Lincoln's young right hander, who packs a hopping fast ball was unable to put the "jump" on it in the first frame, the Bears collecting four good solid knocks and a pair of runs. That, subsequent events proved, was enough to win the ball game but Berger's mates were taking no chances—they scored two more in the ninth.

After Gorman had flied to Purdy in the first frame, Berger pushed a single into right center. Ginglardi cuffed one to right on a hit and run, taking second on the throw-in, and forgetting that Berger was carrying a bad limp from a spike wound, the "Round Man" kept right on coming and ran Joe off third. Berger was run down between third and the plate. That cost the Bears a run, as Jack Roche, next man up, stung one for two bases, scoring Ginglardi, who had gone to third while Lincoln was making the play on Berger.

O'Brien ripped a single down the third base line, scoring Roche. O'Brien was thrown out trying to steal for the third out.

In the home half of the second Lazzeri singled to center, and went to second while Willigrod, Lincoln's new first baseman, was rolling out to Roche. Lamb singled to left, scoring Lazzeri. Right then and there Josh Clarke's crew just as well have washed up and gone home. Curly Brown's haw-handed slants were full of mystery for them. Two Solon runners got as far as second after that.

Beck pitched himself out of a bad hole in the third when Gorman walked and went to third on Chavez's boot of Berger's grounder which was a set-up double play. There was one out. Beck struck out Ginglardi and Roche rolled out.

Double plays in the fourth and fifth nipped Bear rallies. Berger got to second in the sixth and Gorman to third in the eighth but Beck staved off further run coining until the ninth. O'Brien singled to start it. He stole second. Knight walked. Whaling singled to center, scoring O'Brien, Knight going to third. Knight scored while Willigrod was taking a bite out of Brown's roller down the first base line.

Lazzeri bounced a base hit off Gorman's shoulder after one was gone in the ninth but Chavez hit into a double play and the game was over. Score:

Dailey Oklahoman: The grabbing season is on. While Oklahoma City was snatching Catcher Benn, Pitcher Jack Bruner and Second-baseman Casey Mills and Outfielder Thompson from the Southwestern league, Lincoln grabbed "Nuny" Hauser, centerfielder of the Enid club.

Benn is considered such a good hitter that he batted third in the Ottawar lineup. Mills is Enid's leadoff man and Hauser hits third for the same club. Thompson is No. 2 in the Ottawa line-up and is a hard, as well as consistent, swatter.

Tulsa World: Roy Johnson, pitcher is on the Oilers' hospital list. It is during batting practice Tuesday. Ro yis tossing them up. McDonald is knocking them back, Scotty carresses one and it cracks Roy on the right ankle. Roy spends the afternoon sitting in the dugout with his dog in a pail of ice water. He's apt to be bunged up several days.

The old argument about the right of a player to score as the third out is being made has been revived with a new kink to it.

A fan writes: "There is a runner on third and one out and a fly ball is hit to the outfield and caught. The man on third scores after the catch, but the runner on first leaves the bag too soon and a throw to that base doubles him up before he could get back, making the third out. Does the run count?"

The run counts. Formerly there was a decision that the run did not count, because the runner on first did not have to be touched, and his out was the same as a force-out. There is nothing in the rules to authorize that decision now. The book says decisively and emphatically that a force-out can be started by the batter only. In other words there can be no force-out unless the batter forces the runner off a bag.

The managers of two semi-pro teams write in for a decision on this case:

"There is a runner on third and one on first. The batter hits a swinging bunt—that is, does not deliberately try to bunt—and the second baseman fields the ball. He could get the runner going to second but, instead, throws to the plate and misses his man. Is the batter entitled to a hit?"

He is not, provided that the scorer feels sure that the infielder could have got the man at second. The play is scored a fielder's choice, without hit or error.

Taht play, by the way, was the source of so much argument a few years ago that the so-called "Cincinnati basehit" came into discussion. They had been scoring that a hit in Cincinnati and for a while it was recognized.

Oh Henry!

"Got the toothbrush for?"
"Yes; your bag's ready."
"Got my shaving stuff?"
"It's there—and the Oh Henry's in too"—
"All ready then—goo bye!"

Berlanbach and Stribling Draw

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—Young Stribling, Georgia, light heavyweight and Paul Berlenbach, New York, went six rounds to a draw. The decision was not popular, partisan opinion backing each boxer for the winner. Stribling, suffering from the effects of a heavy cold, did not show the form exhibited in his previous matches. He was slow and lacked steam altho he boxed well enough to stay away from the hard punching Berlenbach.

Delaney Knocks Out Moody.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Aug. 28.—Jack Delaney, Bridgeport middleweight, knocked out Frank Moody, Wales, with a right to the jaw in the sixth round. Moody was on the floor five times.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 28.—Carl Tremaine and Bud Taylor, bantams, meet in a ten round bout at the new Olmmpic arena tonight.

A Few on the Cuff

Bears again Thursday. Starting time is 3:30. Friday's game, last of series, will be called at 3 p. m. to permit both clubs to catch a train for Denver where Lincoln performs for four days, returning home next Tuesday. That will be Lincoln's last appearance in Denver this season. The Bears are showing here for the last time now.

Leslie Beck earned plaudits of critics for his performance. Umpire Held said after the game, That boy appears like the makings of a great pitcher. Excellent curve ball and good control. He struck out Ginglardi, Denver's hard hitting outfielder, twice, once with runners on second and third. 'Best pitcher in the league. That's what I think of him." So spoke Walter McCredie, Detroit scout who has been here several days.

Tony Lazzeri, who has penchant for hitting high flies, some of which materialize into home runs, shot one about a thousand feet in the air. Chuck Gorman ran all around under it and finally captured it. "Highest ball I ever caught," said he. No need to drop 'em off the Washington monument any more. Let Tony hit one of his favorites. He hits them square on the nose and Gorman will testify to that, too. He stopped one with his shoulder in the ninth. It went down to him like a rifle bullet. Lazzeri led the Lincoln attack with three hits in four chances.

Pid Purdy, who has been going great guns with the bat since the Solons returned this time, couldn't locate Brown's slants. He was up four times without a hit.

The Bear outfielders were roaming the gardens in fine fashion. Ginglardi and Falk each made four and O'Brien three putouts.

George Willigrod, first baseman, obtained to fill in during Cartwright's absence, handled thirteen chances but got nervous in the ninth on Brown's roller, mussig it too long to make a double play at the plate.

Eddie Moore got a lucky base hit in the fifth. He ducked away from a pitch, the ball hit the bat and went past Brown so fast that he barely got his hands on it. When the ball was recovered Moore was on first.

With the injury jinx working overtime the Lincoln club doesn't have the punch it had a few days ago. Along about the time the Solons turned back Tulsa three in a row, which was included in their straight run of seven victories they were going like a three-alarm fire.

LATEST MARKETS

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—Grain futures closed unchanged to higher on the board of trade today. Features in the late trading was a sensational dip in corn.

General disposition in wheat was to take profits. Liberal export business served to keep wheat buoyant.

Heavy profit sales took the edge off corn and the finish was unchanged with the opening. Selling was due to forecast of warmer weather over the entire growing belt.

Oats maintained a strong undertone and finished fractionally higher.

Grain Market Opinions.

Lamson Bros. & Co.: The general situation presents many bullish aspects.

Stein Alstrin: Sentiment favors a further advance in all grains.

Bartlett-Frazier & Co.: We favor the buying side on al lgood declines.

Harris Winthrop & Co: We favor long side of wheat, but consider corn dangerously high.

Clement Curtis & Co.: Argentine wheat news continues bullish.

Logan & Bryan: Buying on setbacks is excellent.

Thomson McKinnon: The wheat situation seems to be changing for the better. Oats have a particularly strong character.

Chicago Tribune: Exporters are taking wheat in a libreal way and as long as they continue it is expected to have more or less influence on wheat; sales however, are not as large as the primary receipts and good accumulation continue. This, however, does not change the belief in higher prices held by some of the strong interests. A corn specialist says crop conditions on the whole are worse now than at any time in yearss. Shorts have covered freely, yet prices are apt to work higher. Elevator interests continue to buy September and sell December oats, while eastern interests are understood to be buying December on a scale down.

An improvement in the demand for export and domestic is reported in the provision market. Export sales were estimated at 1,000,000 to 1,500,000 bushels wheat and 1,250,000 to 1,500,000 rye.

Herald and Examiner: Good buying appears in all pits on the breaks. Oats are receiving more attention, as they are cheap and deserving of higher price levels.

Journal of Commrece: Sentiment in wheat remains confident of higher prices. While corn is developing under more favorable weather, it is not recovering any of the loss previously sustained, according to reports. aFrmers are showing a disposition to bin their oats. This may result in serious loss if the grain is held any length of time, owing to the excessive moisture content of the grain.

White: Argentine weather still dry; wheat in North America will be wanted at good prices. Would buy it on little dips. Prospects are such that market is very mild and will be; prices are likely to range higher; oats are below parity.

Weinand: Look for good buying of corn on the recessions. Wheat will probably back and fill; avoid bulges when buying. Oats are too low. Rye should do better.—Lamson.

Daily Grain Letter.

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—All grains closed substantially higher, altho there was a recession at the last deu to profit taking. Strong Liverpool cables, confirmation of a practical crop failure in 60 per cent of the planted area in Russia and a statement that a recent Canadian crop report was not n official document but merely compiled from correspondents' figures, led to buying in wehat. One house had advices from Canada that around 250,000,000 bushels for the three northwest provinces would be harvested, while the Canadian wheat pool placed their estimate 270,000,000 bushels. Very unfavorable conditions were reported from western Europe on account of excessive rains. While there were a few better reports concerning the corn crop, conditions on the whole showed no great change. Cromwell, in reviewing the general outlook in Iowa, said there could be no further improvement in the general prospects. This is probably true of many other states so that the big factor now will be the first frost. The Iowa state weather bureau predicts one or more visitations in Septembre. Omaha reported No. 2 ylelow and No. 2 hard wheat selling at the same price—$1.12. Oats reflected the strength in other grains and their own intrinsic value. A trading market may prevail over the week end on account of the extra holiday next Monday. Eventually, we expect all grains to sell higher.—Lamson.

Broomhall Cables.

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 28.—Fair trade in Manitobas and hard winters (US); fair quantities American winters put forward; liberal quantities Argentine corn available; fair business being transacted.—Lamson.

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—Russian crop failure: The Tribune prints a map showing the famine stricken districts and exclusive information relative to a new famine that is now menacing Russia. The famine area embraces a goodly portion of southern and southeastern Russia and is estimated to affect 20,000,000 people. The soviet government now admits that this year's crop failure embraces sixty per cent of the entire planted area and that this situation will result in a famine as severe as that in 1921.—Lamson.

Cromwell's Report on Iowa.

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—Corn around Marshalltown, Ames and Des Moines averages poor to fair prospect, exclusive of abandoned, flooded or hillside washed places. The outstandingly better fields need until the average killing frost date of October 8th. There can be no further improvement in the general prospect. Ears will be small, quality is likely to be affected by immature ears in all fields. The Iowa state weather bureau predicts a subnormal mean temperature in September and says the chances favor one or more September frosts.—Lamson.

Iowa Weather and Crop.

DES MOINES, Aug. 27.—Corn made very good progress but a full month of such progress required to mature crop. Much of it been so stunted it can never make fully developed ears. As yet very little can be said to disperse the gloom of our report last week. Many corn fields damaged by excessive rains, while much grain in shock discolored, mouldy and sprouting. Remarkable yields of oats reported.—Lamson.

Foreign Cables.

(By Lamson Bros. & Co.)

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 28.—Wheat opened today 1c to 1¼c up. Wheat at 3 p. m. unchanged, ¾c up. Wheat closed today 1@1¾c up.

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 28.—Wheat closed here last night 1@2c lower. Corn closed here last night unchanged.

Indiana Weather and Crop.

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 28.—Week more favorable and higher temperature; showers in central section. Corn improved. Averages three weeks late. Condition fair but much variation in advancement. Oats being threshed in north with good to excellent results.—Lamson.

North Dakota Report.

FARGO, N. D., Aug. 28.—Most favorable week yet with rapid advancement. Many reports of damage from frost, however, during preceding week. Most serious in the southeast portion of the state. —Lamson.

South Dakota Report.

PIERRE, Aug. 27.—Corn advanced hapidly. Mostly in roasting ear stage. Some dented. Rain needed in some localities. Yields wheat, oats and barley fair to excellent.—Lamson.

Argentine Crops.

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 28.—Weather continues dry; rains needed in sections. Increasing complaints of drouth. Corn, fairly good export demand reported.—Lamson.

Liverpool Wheat.

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 28.—Wheat: Oct., Dec. and March all 3-4 higher.—Lamson.

Some heavy plain corn fed steers are 75c lower.

Stock Letter.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—Despite reports of better steel bookings and Judge Gary's optimistic statement in regard to the industry, United States steel showed weakness late in the session. It was said the traders were selling the shares because of a shading in the price of several products. Car loadings were the largest for any week of the year, and a bright spot in the rail situation, an increase in Great Northern net earnings for seven months as compared with last year. We favor buying all sound stocks on the breaks.—Lamson.

Wall Street Journal Review.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—Again today the market was kept in an irregular condition by professional drives against parts of the list believed vulnerable on account of the presence of a weak speculative following. Attempts to dislodge holdings of this character created unsettlement at various times during the session, but the main body of stocks maintained a steady front despite these flurries.

With the labor day holiday coming in conjunction with the week end suspension of business, many traders absented themselves from the street.

Stock Market Opinions.

Lamson Bros. & Co. Judge Gary's statement and an acceptance of the Dawes plan by Germany should help the market.

Ware & Co.: We do not believe the bears will be very successful.

Post & Flagg: The market at the moment is a trading affair.

Clement Curtis & Co.: The market shows good buying power.

Harris Winthrop & Co.: Would buy on the next decline.

Thomson McKinnon: A more extended public interest plus political uncertainty can easily result in a continuation of the present unsettled market.

Logan & Bryan: The general situation warrants the expectancy of a resumption of the forward movement.

New York Times: The stock market still appears to be waiting for the next turn in events.

New York Tribune: Directors of the Pere Marquette, the last of the five railroads which will enter the new Nickle Plate system will today approve the plan.

Iron Age says: Steel bookings in August show a gain of 10 per cent.

New York American: The day was disappointing to those who expected a change with such good market material as Judge Gary's statement as to business conditions.

SCOURING TOWN FOR JOBS

Lions Hope to Find Several Hundred Available for University Students.

Members of the Lions club went forth immediately after luncheon Thursday, armed with cards on which they will list part time jobs suitable for university students, both men and women. Their findings will be turned over the university Y. M. C. A. employment bureau, which opens for applications September 1. L. E. Gunderson is in general charge of the drive and the business district has been divided into twelve sections for canvassing purposes.

Lions will ask for jobs around homes when they interview business men in regard to office work and the like, and they will list whatever jobs they can find for women students. Full time jobs are all handled by the city Y. M. C. A. it was explained Thursday noon, and all part-time and student work by the university Y.

While they would like to find enough work to help a thousand young men and women thru the university, the Lions are not expecting to reach that goal, and warnings have been issued against too optimistic reports. Such reports last year brought too many students here expecting to find work, and there was no work.

HAS NO FEAR OF MILITARY

grant pay to draft boards for service gratuitously given during the war. It is held out as an inducement to these boards to co-operate. The federal army has no authority over draft boards and no authority to direct mobilization.

"I notified draft boards that no provision is made for mobilization of civil forces on that day, but that the governor has called on the national guard to mobilize all patriotic societies to hold services, but that I had not authorized the appointment of military committees or draft boards to call on citizens generally to be mobilized.

"I am not alarmed about an attempt of the military forces to override the civil, but do say they are out of harmony with civil authorities who are supreme in this country."

MAN IN JAIL DESIRES SHAVE

Attorney General Says County Not Obliged to Furnish Razor.

According to Assistant Attorney General Lloyd Dort a county is not such a paternal organization that it is required to furnish a razor for a person in a county jail or to send him under guard to a barber and charge the cost of shaves to the county. The letter was signed by J. E. Kay of Thedford, whose post-office box is 213.

"Please let me know," says the writer of the letter, "if the county has to furnish a man something to shave with in the county jail or pay for it done at a barber shop. I have no razor and no money. The barber said he couldn't do my work unless the county would pay the bill."

DREAM READERS NUMEROUS.

LONDON, (By Mail).—So many quacks, it is said, are rushing into the field of psycho-analysis that English experts in "dreams" and "complexes" are demanding that the bars be put up. They want to make it impossible for anyone to practice psycho-analysis for professional gain who does not have a diploma in "psychological medicine" from an accredited school.

FATE OF SLAYERS RESTS WITH JUDGE

adjourned; the hearing—one of the most sensational on record—was completed.

Nothing remains but for Justice Caverly to sentence the two slayers. He has three choices—hang them; sentence them to life terms; or sentence them to terms in the penitentiary not less than fourteen years.

Justice Caverly did not indicate when his sentence would be imposed. He intends to go into seclusion for several days to study the thousands of pages of evidence and arguments and probably will sentence the boys within a week or ten days.

In a ferocious attack, glowing white hot with denunciation, Crowe declared the slayers of Bobby Franks were not deserving of mercy and demanded that Chief Justice Caverly impose the death sentence.

Crowe again established the state's contention that the real motive in the case was money.

"The real defense in this case is Clarence Darrow and his peculiar philosophy of life," Crowe declared.

"The first and real motive of the boys was money and they killed their victim simply to escape arrest and punishment. The time they spent on their plans to secure the money, the letter demanding $10,000 ransom and all the evidence shows the boys' object was to secure the money."

"The medical defense has no foundation in facts; Leopold is not a mere child but has the mind and brains of a man of thirty," he said.

"Your honor can look at them and can readily see that there is nothing wrong with them physically or mentally," the state's attorney declared. "The only thing wrong with them is their moral sense.

CONCERNED ABOUT MOHLER

Omaha Friends Learned With Regret of Injury During Storm at Sea.

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 28.—Omaha people were much concerned this morning to learn that A. L. Mohler, former president of the Union Pacific, had been injured on board an ocean liner during the recent storm, falling and striking his head on a chair. Mr. Mohler is seventy-four years old. The friends of Mr. Mohler recall that it was not long after a fall in Omaha, while skating at Miller park that Mr. Mohler retired from active life and went to live in his old home at Cedar Rapids, Ia.

Planning Ahead for Your Home

A house and lot for your home cannot be bought wholly on credit—you must have some money of your own to invest in it. But if you have saved up, say, one-third enough you can usually borrow the rest on a monthly payment basis.

Why not begin now to save money to buy that home you expect to own a few years from now? Our Monthly Investments plan, combining saving and investment in one operation, is one of the best ways to accumulate the "nest-egg" to buy your home.

Class A Monthly Investments requires a payment of $10.00 each month, and at the end of every ten months you get a bond or mortgage for $100 to put away in your Safe Deposit Box. And your money earns 6% interest. Class E contract requires $5.00 first payment and then you can pay in $1.00 or more any time you have it to spare. Ask for folder describing Modern Investments.

Los Angeles Times: Brander Matthews, the brilliant critic of Columbia, was lamenting the new type of American novelists are turning out so briskly.

"A young girl," he said, "was reading a novel theother day by our famous Gottlieb Lavinsky-Gottlieb. Her mother looked at the book and said nervously:

"'I hope, dear, that Lavinsky-Gottlieb novel is quite nice?'

"'Oh, quite nice, mamma,' said the young girl, 'but I don't think you would care for it. The ending is so sad.'

"'Yes?' said her mother. "'How sad, darling?'

"'Well,' said the young girl, 'you see, she dies, and the poor fellow has to go back to his wife.'"

MEN AND THINGS

Sofar we have been able to restrain out tendency to yawn when a particular friend is discusing with enthusiam what he has found in what are known as the classical books. Having reached the earth first it was quite easy for the thoughtful old gentlemen of ancient days to think up a lot of good things that we envy them for, but we have an abiding conviction that better writing is being done now than in the old days. By that we mean a greater lucidity of style. This may be the result of reading more of the later books than of the older ones, but if we cannot improve this art why keep on writing?

A lot of piffle is printed, even by the newspapers themselves to the effect that the influence of the press is at a low ebb. We doubt it very much, if the real topic is whether people are less influenced by their newspaper reading than before. We grant it if what is meant is a refusal of the people to follow the advice and lead in politics of the editors. In these days the national slogan is "Don't take anybody's advice." Why is it only under the compulsion of fear that we follow, in part the costly advice of the doctors! The fact remains that the newspaper is the greatest source of information for the greatest number of people, and in the end most persons guide their conduct by the essence of the information they absorb.

The greatest truths are the simplest in form. One of the epitaphs most common in the pre-Volstead days was "he was his own greatest enemy." As a matter of fact each of us is his or her own greatest enemy Most of the hurts that come to us are not the result of blows administered by others or what we have severally massed under the head of fate or fortune. The things that keep people from being uniformly healthy, happy and prosperous are the faults that so many of us either cultivate out of weakness or link ourselves up with because they pander to our selfishness or some other unlovely quality.

We are thankful that our ambition never ran in the direction of being a party leader. There are, of course, features attached to the position that are alluring, but we have a constitutional objection to swallowing a lot of things we do not like. We have no hankering to observe in our own person those symptoms that attach to a giraffe with a sore throat. A party leader must always be regular, no matter how saffron-hued the color of the party candidate If he did not ostensibly approve of the convention choice he would not be allowed to sit in the game the next time, and while we would not regard that as any deprivation it seems to be a very potent influence.

An investigation ought to be conducted to discover how the phrase "the sterner sex" came to be fastened upon the men. Stern, as we conceive the word without any dictionary assistance, means to maintain a grim and forbidding exterior. If we are to believe the cartoonists and joke-makers the men are certainly not the sterner sex, and if we are to accept as true those stories presumably emanating from gentlemen whose return to their domiciles was delayed until about the midnight hour stern is just the right word to describe their reception. One cartoonist has made a fortune by adopting as the motif—notice our growing familiarity with musical trems—of every picture the sternness of the female of the species as displayed toward her particular male—a cartoonist whose picture is framed and upon the walls of every married man's club in the country.

Governor Bryan is determined to prove that while there may be various ways of concealing one's identity and importance, running for the vice presidency is not going to be one of them in his case This may not be his show, but so long as he knows the game so well no one can prevent him from being ringmaster. No one occupies a more spectcular position in a political circus than the ringmaster.

ABE MARTIN

We allus feel like we wuz in a losin' game when a p'litical orator tells us our gover'ment is a gigantic business enterprise, an' we are all stockholders an' partners in it Lafe Bud, who's bein' sued for $122 rent, remains unmoved.

BRAIN TESTS

(By Sam Loyd)

10 Minutes to Answer This.

The Newlyweds were told by the furniture dealers that his terms were $5 cash and $5 per month until the goods were paid for, but in case they wished to pay spot cash, $10 would be thrown off, making the articles cost only $65 They accepted the installment proposition, so who can tell what interest they paid for the use of the money?

Getting Acquainted.

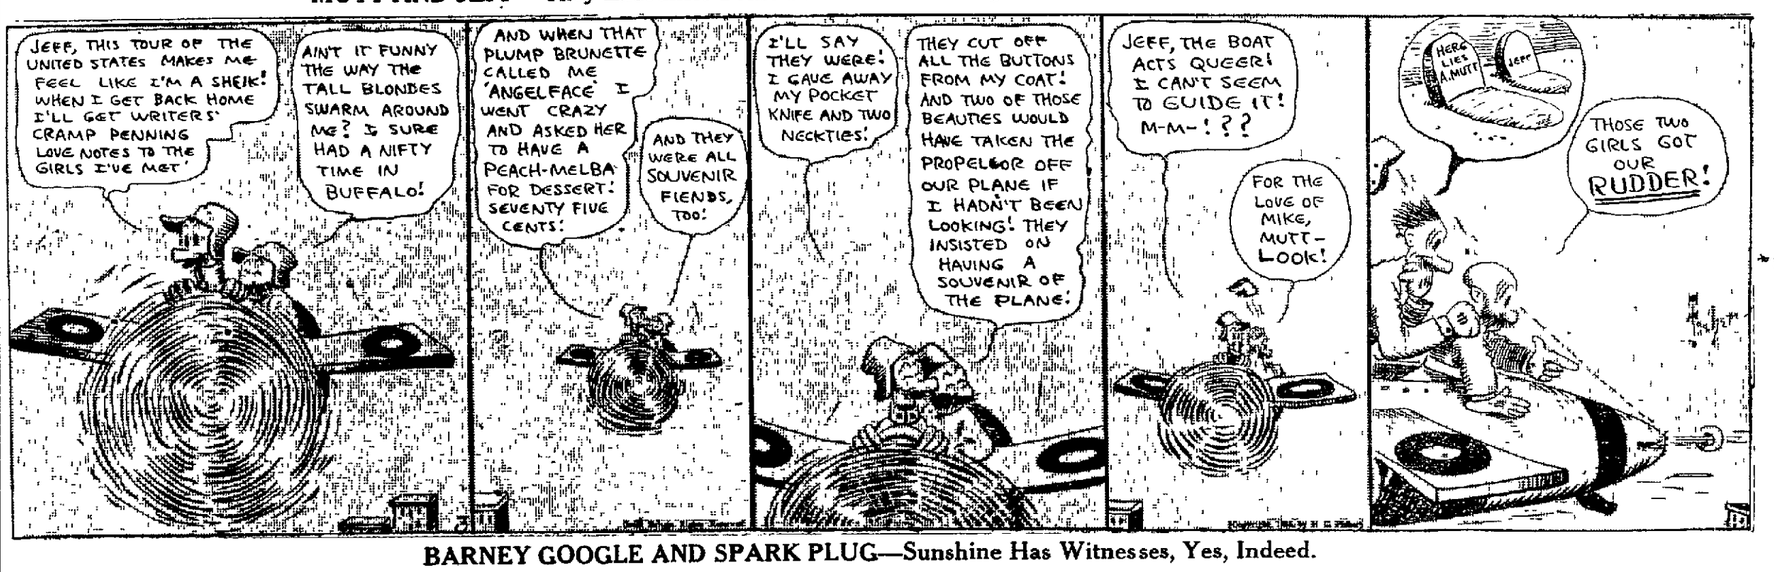

Los Angeles Times· In the summer of 1889 Mark Twain and Rudyard Kipling first met Kipling who had just begun to make his name known, was tourning the world and during the trip thru the United States They went to Elmira especially to see Mark Twain The account of the visit and interview is described by Mark Twain as follows:

"Kipling spent a couple of hours with me, and at the end of that time I had surprised him as much as he had surprised me—and the honors were even I believe that he knew more than any person I had ever met before, and I knew that he knew that I knew less than any person he had met before—tho he did not say it, and I was not expecting that he would—he is a most remarkable man—and I am the other one. Between us we cover all knowledge; he knows all that can be known and I know the rest."
